

at such and begin to remedy it. We have had no President of late who so conspicuously pointed out to the American people what he thought they ought to do in conjunction with his administration. He is the best equipped man who ever went into that task, and I predict an outstanding administration and leadership."

It is contemplated that the investigating commission will require a year or more to conduct its inquiry and formulate its report. No subject has been more widely discussed than the increase of crime in America, and no subject has elicited a greater divergence of views, particularly among lawyers.

Reports at Loggerhead.

That our judicial processes are a century behind the times is a view commonly held among lawyers, and yet they cannot agree on the reforms that ought to be instituted. Senator George W. Norris (Rep., Neb.), chairman of the senate judiciary committee, has endeavored to effect some reforms, but could not get them accepted by the committee, which is composed exclusively of lawyers.

One of the changes he sought was a provision that when a defendant avoids taking the witness stand in his own defense the jury shall be allowed to take that circumstance into consideration in reaching a verdict.

Senator Norris holds that one of the chief faults of our judicial system is the method of jury selection, which tends to eliminate intelligent persons from service on juries. He says that one of the few points on which lawyers are agreed to a noticeable degree is that federal trial judges should be appointed for a fixed term—ten years, perhaps—instead of for life.

He Cites British Reforms.

What is needed in this country is a reform of the administration of justice, such as England effected, says Norris, who dries adds that the British did it by keeping lawyers off the commission. The congestion of the courts by prohibition cases is so serious that, according to one judge, the trial of all the prohibition cases would paralyze the federal court system. That it functions at all is merely because most of the defendants in prohibition cases plead guilty in order to escape with a fine instead of imprisonment.

Of the 32,372 criminal prosecutions commenced in the federal courts during the last fiscal year, 25,728 were prohibition cases. Of the 32,328 criminal cases terminated, 25,423 were those of prohibition offenders. At the close of the fiscal year there were 30,377 criminal proceedings pending, of which 12,229 were prohibition cases.

In an effort to relieve the congestion of the federal courts the last congress created 12 additional judges.

Youth, 19, Delivers Liquor on Way to School; Seized

John Calia, 19 year old student at Crane Technical High school, was arrested by Des Plaines street police yesterday as he was delivering 28 half pints of moonshine which he claimed he sold for his grandparents to a soft drink parlor at 211 West Van Buren street. At the station Calia said he was delivering the liquor in his school book case on his way to classes. Peter Cortese, proprietor of the soft drink parlor, was taken into custody, and police said they would arrest the boy's grandparents.

WISCONSIN DRY LAW DOOMED, IS LEADERS' BELIEF

Referendum on April 2 Is Likely to Kill It.

Madison, Wis., March 5.—[Special.]—Within the next few months Wisconsin may become the fifth state in the Union minus a prohibition enforcement act with the legislature today definitely relinquishing its hold on the Duncan resolution to permit the voters to say what they want done on the prohibition question.

When Wisconsin voters go to the polls on April 2, they will be confronted with the question whether the legislature should repeal the entire state dry enforcement act or whether the act should be modified. If the voters ballot for repeal the legislature is expected to carry out the popular will before adjournment.

Up to U. S. Government. New York, Maryland, Montana and Nevada are now operating without state enforcement acts, leaving the matter of prohibition entirely in the hands of the federal government.

The last hour attempt by the drys to hold up the Duncan resolution failed to materialize. The legislature refused to reconsider its action in adopting the measure and drys gave up the fight.

Judging by the bitter fight against the referendum by the drys and the enthusiasm for it by the wets, shows the general feeling in both camps that the state is wet and will vote that way when given a chance.

Will Appeal to Churches.

Dry leaders have announced they will carry their campaign against the repeal of the dry act into every church that permits discussion on the subject. From now on the drys will be carrying the gospel, "vote no," with the wets countering with "vote yes," until the actual count is taken.

Senator Howard Treadle, Sparta, leader of all reform movements in the legislature, saw two more of his measures fall by the wayside today. His resolution to investigate "orgies" at the recent road school here was killed. His was the only vote it received. His bill to permit Bible reading in the schools mustered a total of four votes. The latter bill was backed by the Gideons.

AFTER 51 WEDDED YEARS WIFE OF 73 SEEKS FREEDOM

After fifty-one years of married life Mrs. Mary Olson, 73 years old, 441 South St. Louis avenue, yesterday sought a divorce from her husband, Joseph Olson, 73 years old, before Circuit Judge Stanley H. Klarkowski. She charged desertion and asked temporary alimony.

They have had ten children, of whom four survive. Charles, 50 years old, and Myrtle, 30 years old, are supporting their mother's plea. Walter, 23 years old, and Edward, 25 years old, accompanied Olson, who still works at his trade of bricklaying.

The wife said Olson left her two years ago to take a room at 1051 West Washington boulevard. Olson answered that Charles and Myrtle conspired to turn their mother against him. They sought to obtain control of his two three flat buildings, he said. The aged couple resisted the judge's efforts at reconciliation. Judge Klarkowski continued the case until April 11.

PEARL NECKLACE, WORTH $25,000, IS LOST OR STOLEN

Mrs. Nelson L. Barnes, 1120 Lake Shore drive, yesterday reported the disappearance of a string of pearls valued at $25,000. The string of 66 pearls—one large and six small diamonds attached—was either lost or taken from her purse while she was on a shopping tour with her daughter on Monday afternoon.

The daughter, Mrs. Louis C. Sudler, was married a month ago and had just returned from her honeymoon. Mrs. Barnes went to her home at 70 East Cedar street to help arrange the furnishings. While there, the clasp was broken and the pearls fell from her neck. She placed them in a handkerchief, tied two knots, and placed it in her handbag.

"Well, they'll be safe there," she remarked to her daughter, and thought no more of them.

Later they went shopping in the family car to several stores. When Mrs. Barnes returned home the pearls were gone. Mr. Barnes is resident partner of Babcock Rushton, 323 North Michigan avenue, a brokerage firm.

SORORITY HOUSE BOBBED.

Three fur coats valued at $500 and three pocketbooks containing $15 were stolen last night from the vestibule of the Alpha Xi Delta sorority house, 710 Emerson avenue, Evanston, by a prowler while the student residents were at dinner in the basement.

U. S. DRY AGENT IN WISCONSIN HELD FOR BRIBE

Second Arrested in State Within a Week.

Madison, Wis., March 5.—[Special.]—Henry M. Strawn of Jacksonville, Ill., former federal prohibition agent here, tonight is under $4,000 bond, charged by a federal grand jury with accepting bribes from thirteen Green Bay saloonkeepers.

His arrest today is the second of federal agents here within a week. A third member of the department also has been named by the jury on similar charges.

Would Destroy Evidence.

Benjamin Plank at East St. Louis, Ill., also is under $4,000 bonds, which he furnished. He was indicted for accepting $2,500 to permit liquor trucks to move without molestation, and for promising immunity to operators of a still called near Oconomowoc.

Strawn, who failed to pass the civil service examination demanded of federal dry agents, but who was kept on the local force, chiefly was instrumental in effecting the padlocking of the St. Charles hotel here last year. Testimony given in the case revealed that Strawn and other agents required two months to obtain the evidence, during which time they purchased numerous bottles of liquor from hotel employees and played host at parties which were frequented by dozens of girls with few clothes.

Indicted to Office of AM.

The specific charges named in the indictment against Strawn are that he met with Green Bay saloonkeepers and offered, for a consideration of $5,000, to destroy evidence collected against them by undercover men of the department.

He is alleged to have accepted $250 from Albert Gill, $1,500 collected from some of the others who were raided, and $100 from George Koloschek. It also is charged he met Gill and Frank Parent in the Northland hotel and took $500 from them on an offer of immunity.

Omaha, Neb., March 5.—[Special.]—The Northern Baptist church donated sixty thousand dollars to the Hoover for President campaign fund and figure that Hoover is easily worth that amount, Dr. W. H. Bowler of New York, executive secretary of the board of promotion of the church, told a gathering of Omaha and Council Bluffs ministers here today.

Dr. Bowler said that he was revealing what happened to the sixty thousand dollars which the laymen of the church contributed last year for the missionary fund, because he was forced to come before them to ask for seventy-five thousand dollars to make up a deficit caused by the sixty thousand dollar donation. The deficit must be made up by May 1.

The speaker told the gathering he was revealing this information for his first time but that every official of the church figures that the sixty thousand was well spent.

HOOVER'S FIRST WHITE HOUSE DAY PEOPLE'S SHOW

Smiling President Greeted Thousands.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Washington, D. C., March 5.—[Special.]—President Hoover's first day at the White House was turned into a show for the people, a continuation of his inauguration. Two thousand five hundred men, women and children crushed their way into the executive offices to shake hands with the smiling President. Some came through the windows. The formality of cards and letters from congressmen was overlooked and Mr. Hoover received the public until he was tired and late for lunch. He did not send them away disappointed.

They came early and stood in the rain waiting for a chance to rush the doors. Florida, Texas, California, Ohio, Kansas, Illinois, and Iowa had particularly large delegations. They were not high-batted dignitaries and politicians with a pull, but just the plain people, with babies in their arms, future Presidents gazing at their fatherly face and delight in their eyes at this great experience.

New Spirit in People's Palace.

Mr. Hoover, in some intangible way, made it appear that a new spirit had come to live in the people's palace. It was another sort of Jacksonian or Rooseveltian spectacle. In the White House, the new president was busy with her own receiving line. The work of the government went on without a hitch, but there was an expansiveness, a feeling of relaxation, abroad.

The President himself looked relaxed and happy and quite ready to take command. He talked today to more than 200 newspaper correspondents and gave them the assurance of definite desire to work with them, said through them. There is to be an elaboration of the old press arrangements.

Illinois Well Represented.

Illinois was represented today by 170 members and friends of the Hamilton club of Chicago. Iowa, the President's own state, sent hundreds, and at the tag end of the procession was a little old lady who was very excited and trembled. She was Mrs. Mollie Curran, his West Branch school teacher. The President took her hand and made her sit down beside him and tell him the names of all the other Iowa folk. Later he took her and her husband, Jack, over to the White House for lunch.

Texas came to the White House with the Simmons cowboy band and they played "I've Been Workin' on the Railroad," and other tunes until the President came out to be photographed with them. He also had his picture taken with the Cedar Rapids folk. California, his adopted state, came along with the Bear flag flying and the native sons jubilant. They presented him with a golden bear. Wisconsin sent a big crush of people, called the good will mission. One woman from Illinois had a letter from a senator and sought to get in early, past the "mob," but she had to go to the end of the line and wait.

Shakes Hands with 2,500.

The President stood in his office shaking hands with each one of the 2,500. The secret service men stood by his side. Then the people were passed through another door. In from the rain and out into the rain, but they remembered a fine and friendly face, a room with a big desk set with red roses, candle lights gleaming, and a new moment in history.

Dr. Hubert Work was an early caller and Secretary Kellogg came in twice to discuss the Mexican situation. Late in the afternoon the members of the national committee and former chairmen were received in the executive office.

In the meantime the day's work was going on. His assistants, George Akerson and Lawrence Richy, were sworn in and the Hoover organization was fitted into the regular White House staff. Rudolph Forster remains at his old post as chief clerk. He has been there since the days of Taft.

In welcoming the correspondents, Mr. Hoover was a changed man from the one who has been silent all these months. He was smiling and at ease. He said that he was aware that there was a feeling that he had not been accessible to the press during the last two months, but he recalled his relations with the newspaper men as food administrator and secretary of commerce, and indicated that these same friendly times would be renewed.

Amplify Press Conference.

The President made this statement for publication regarding the conference:

"Before we undertake other questions, I wish to say a word about the press conference. I would like the conferences to continue as before with the same understandings as those which you had with President Coolidge. I wish your cooperation on further development of these conferences. As you know, the relations of the President and the press have been a matter of development over a number of administrations, starting most actively perhaps under President Roosevelt, going through one experimental stage to another down to the present time. By degrees a mean has been found for a more intimate relationship, and I have an impression that we might develop it even further in those directions which would assist the press and assist the President.

"I would like to suggest that Mr. Young, who is the president of the White House association, make up a committee of the heads of bureaus and services to discuss the matter with me on some early occasion so as to how we can further amplify these relations. I am anxious to clear up the twilight zone as far as we can between authoritative and quotable material on one hand, and such material as I am able to give from time to time for purely background purposes on the other. I wish to be of such service as I can in these conferences, and beyond this in matters of special character that are not of general interest I would be glad to see any of you from time to time. I want you to feel free to make such suggestions as will help me out in that direction."

DEATH OF SKULL FRACTURE.

HOOVER'S 'ROBUST IDEAL' SINISTER TO ITALY'S EYES

Rome Press Tells About
His "Coronation."

BY WAVERLEY ROOT.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

MADRID, March 5.—While a majority of the Italian papers confined themselves to printing a report of President Hoover's inaugural address without comment, those that gave it editorial attention seemed to find ground in it for alarm over America's imperialism.

The conservative Tribune headed its editorial: "Imperial Democracy," while Impero, which is as chauvinistic as they come, printed a news story under this headline: "Was It a Coronation?" Impero gave first position to a front page alarmist editorial, under the title: "Peace on Earth for Well Armed Men."

Tribune took its text from Mr. Hoover's reference to the "historic mission" of the United States, suggesting that by that the new President means to spread the United States' ideals by force of its economic position.

Attacks 'Robust Idealism.'

"Mr. Hoover, on installing himself on the imperial throne of the American republic, has spoken of the 'historic mission' of America and exults in the 'robust idealism' of America," Impero begins. "The English press naturally protested, not on account of the idealism but on account of the word robust. The word robust in the dialect which Mr. Hoover speaks signifies heavy caliber guns and 30,000 ton ships."

"If we could speak for a moment of the above named person, without anger, without political passion, and without taking the European attitude, we would give our full sympathy to Mr. Hoover. He is a great humorist; he would merit this title for nothing else than thus destroying the democratic conception of the word idealism by marrying it to the adjective robust."

See South American Penetration.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
MADRID, March 5.—President Herbert Hoover's inaugural address gives warning of energetic economic penetration by the United States in South America and leaves the American policy towards Europe an enigma, according to the consensus of Spanish opinion, expressed in well censored newspapers and in semi-official comment today. Spain, as mother country of the South American republics, takes special interest in the new orientation under President Hoover of the United States' international politics.

"Our interest in American international politics is double," says the authoritative El Debate today. "We are interested in it first as Spaniards and second as Europeans," referring to Spain's concern with European economic equilibrium, which is dependent on the debt settlement, and also on Spain's concern over closer commercial relations between the United States and South America.

The Liberal organ, El Heraldillo de Madrid, takes a more skeptical point of view commenting on Mr. Hoover's refutation of charges of American imperialism, which it says will better be proved by deeds than words.

"We hope the Yankees will not take their desire to promote South American prosperity as a pretext to compromise the independence of these countries by more devious means," says El Heraldillo.

Speech Pleases Germans.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
BERLIN, March 5.—President Herbert Hoover's inaugural speech in Washington fell upon receptive ears throughout Germany. What the reichstag and the German foreign office heard above all other things were the President's words on disarmament, which brought a new ray of hope to the German diplomats and politicians who have been discouraged by their vain efforts of past years to curb the armaments of Europe. The Vossische Zeitung, in a long editorial, voices representative German republic opinion when it stresses the President's appeal for international peace and good will.

"What would Premier Benito Mussolini make of such a situation with his shimmering axes, firing eagles and thunder and lightning?" the editorial asks. "Mr. Hoover's speech represents exactly the opposite: a message of peace, an invitation to confidence."

Japanese Praise Hoover Success.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, March 5.—The Japanese press predicts that the Hoover administration will be efficient and economic. It praises the new President's business ability and hopes he will exert influence in the international disarmament question. It sees farm relief as the biggest domestic problem. The Osaka Mainichi believes the Hoover administration will be noteworthy because of the growing indication that the American government will be centralized in the President's authority and that Mr. Hoover will not be a puppet in the hands of the party leaders because of his skill and experience in practical politics.

"Mr. Hoover, a renowned peace advocate, may be prevailed upon to assemble an international disarmament conference, if Japan and Great Britain are reasonable," it says.

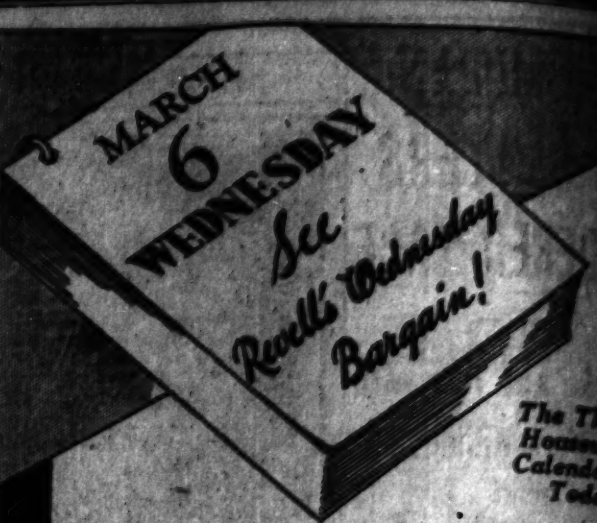

The Tokio Nichi Nichi expects a masterful policy from the President and wonders how he will handle the Japanese protest against the discriminatory immigration bill.

TRACK ELEVATION TO BE CONSIDERED BY PENNSYLVANIA

Pennsylvania railroad officials will meet with Richard W. Wolfe, commissioner of public works, in the latter's office today to consider the elevation of freight tracks extending from Halsted street to Duane, avenue between 15th and 16th streets. Elevation of the tracks along this stretch of one and one-half miles will necessitate the opening of subways for street traffic at Racine and Ashland avenues and perhaps other streets. "The inconvenience caused the public by trains is so great that early relief is imperative," Commissioner Wolfe wrote to T. B. Hamilton, regional vice president of the Pennsylvania. Many of the railroads secured permission to delay elevation, after the ordinance was passed fifteen years ago, on the ground that they were without funds. Mr. Wolfe pointed out it is time now that the railroads should be elevating their tracks.

CHARGE MORAN GANG SLAYERS MURDERED YALE

Link Burke and Ray with New York Killing.

Reputations as murderers achieved by Fred Burke and James Ray when they killed Frank Yale (Yale) in New York last July 1 resulted in their employment in the Moran gang massacre. Assistant State's Attorney David Stansbury learned last night. Burke and Ray are being hunted as the men who were police uniforms to gain access to the Moran headquarters at 212 North Clark street, and their almost connection with the Yale murder became known only yesterday. They were hired to kill Yale, who had insured the emphysema of Alphonse Capone, and they received $10,000 each for the job. It was disclosed.

Brings Out Old Story.

The information concerning their part in the Yale murder was given to the prosecutors as pictures of Burke, Ray, and Joseph Loloro were being sent throughout the country. The story is one long series of murders in Chicago and New York, dating back nearly ten years to the killing of Big Sam Colosimo, boss of Chicago's red light district. It came out as a part of the investigation of the killing of the seven men here on Valentine day. As the tale was told last night, Yale who had one of the biggest funerals held in New York, was suspected of killing Dean O'Banion, who had the biggest funeral in Chicago, and of killing Colosimo, who was buried before a full house came to the funeral. Capone, with his former chief, John Torrio, has long been regarded as the instigator of both murders. But Capone and Yale, who used to exchange hired murderers who were not known to their victims, had a falling out.

The heat of Chicago was enough for one last July 1, but Capone found it convenient to be in Miami, Fla., that day. Just as he was on Feb. 14, when seven more of his enemies met their doom. New York police carried on an investigation for months and the gun used by Yale's killers were traced to Miami.

Lombardo slain in retaliation. It was soon after Yale was killed that Tony Lombardo was shot down in Dearborn and Madison streets in afternoon. Joe Loloro was a bodyguard of Lombardo that day, as his brother, Pasquale Loloro, had been previously.

The Lombardo killing was conceded by police to have been in retaliation for the Yale murder. It developed then that Joe Aiello, once the copuler with Lombardo, had become Lombardo's enemy, and consequently the enemy of Capone, and that after a brief alliance with the Moran gang he had gone to New York and allied himself with Yale.

Joe Loloro, being in the confidence of Lombardo as well as sharing his brother's knowledge of gang killings, knew the man who killed Yale. He and his brothers were making plans for Pasquale's succession to Lombardo's throne when Pasquale was killed in his home at 121 West North avenue last January.

Blame Moran Gunners.

The widow accused Joe Aiello of the killing but the colored maid who saw the three men said they were not Italians and it soon became general knowledge that the Queensberg brothers, Peter and Frank, and James Clark, were the men who shot Pasquale Loloro to death in his own home. They were Bugs Moran's best gunners.

The Loloro neighborhood was the field of operations of a new Capone lieutenant, Claude Maddox, known as Johnnie Moore, when he took pos-

Squire Alphonse Capone Gets Two Big Loads Off His Chest

Miami, Fla., March 5.—[Special.]—Alphonse Capone, Chicago gang lord and Florida squire, is tired of fake reports about his present state of mind and health, he said today, and so he welcomed an interviewer whom he granted carte blanche in the asking of questions.

"I am going back to Chicago as soon as I get well," Capone said. "I have nothing to fear from the Chicago authorities, who say they want to question me, and I'll be glad to meet them and to meet the federal grand jury and have it over with."

The paunchy gang leader laughed as he discussed published reports that he was planning to leave the United States and take up a residence in the Bahamas islands because he feared the federal subpoena calling him before the Chicago grand jury March 12.

"Why, I go there three or four times every week," he said. "I bought a whole island of 500 acres in the Bahamas some months ago, and I've been planning a health resort there."

"My hydro-aeroplane makes the water jump from my back down here in the bay to my Bahamas island in an hour, and I've been accustomed to flying over several times a week and then back for supper."

Capone dropped a bit of sardonic humor as he added:

"We can go over there and have a quiet highball or two under the British flag without violating the prohibition laws of the United States."

Asked why he wasn't well enough now to go to Chicago for the March 12 session of the federal grand jury, Capone replied that a severe case of pneumonia had almost counted him out. The gangster for whom many guns have been primed in the Chicago booze wars almost fell before a flock of germs, he revealed.

"I was in bed sixteen days, and my physician, Dr. Kenneth Phillips, will tell you I was on the verge of death," Capone asserted. "He tells me that the raw spring climate of Chicago at this time will be dangerous for one in my weakened condition, and unless the district attorney at Chicago is absolutely insistent I shall seek to delay my appearance before the federal grand jury for a week or two."

"They say the police of Chicago want to see me about the gang massacre. At the very time of the killing I was sitting in the office of the district attorney here in Miami, being questioned about some New York incidents."

session of the beer district of Oregon and another part of the west side, Maddox, with Capone's influence back of him, coveted some of the Moran domain on the north side, the prosecutors learned.

Frankie Frost, alias Foster, and another Moran follower named Davis, meanwhile had killed John Clay, head of the Laundry and Dye House Drivers and Chauffeurs' union, it was charged. The Gusenbergs had twice attempted to kill Jack McGurn, whose original name was James Gebardi, a Sicilian.

Gang Massacre Decried.

A council of war was held at the Circus café, 187 West North avenue, which had a machine gun annex next door at 189, used by Maddox and which was across the street from Pasquale Loloro's Italian American club, and the deliberation of the whole Moran gang was decreed, the investigation disclosed.

Maddox, McGurn, and Loloro couldn't get near the Moran booze depot at 212 North Clark street without an alarm being given, and the idea of dressing two killers as policemen apparently was conceived.

"Loloro recalled the two big men who took part in the Yale murder, and Maddox knew them from former membership in the St. Louis 'Egan's Rats,'" Stansbury said. "McGurn had the money to pay them, and Burke and Ray were called into the war council. The rest is gang history in Chicago."

all but the names of two other Sicilians who took part being known to the public."

Stage Goes to Louisville.

Deputy Commissioner John Stage went to Louisville, Ky., for information regarding the companions of Burke in a bank robbery there in 1925. He was told that Burke was indicted in 1927 after his picture had been identified by the cashier of the Portland bank which was robbed of $15,000. Burke forfeited bonds of $15,000 but three of his companions, Lawrence Daugherty, said to be from St. Louis; Paul Farina and Pascal Farina are now serving terms in the Kentucky penitentiary, and Chester Daugherty, another of the robbers, is still at large.

In their search for Maddox the police raided the office of John Quinn, a trucking contractor at 806 Milwaukee avenue, yesterday. Quinn and three others were taken to the detective bureau for questioning and it was said there that Quinn had been hauling beer for Maddox and McGurn.

Early last night police seized Frank "Cy" Cawley, alias John Mangano, 12 Front street, while in front of 4306 Broadway. He is being held for questioning. Cawley, according to the police, has been an associate of George Barker, alleged garage bomber, who recently was acquitted of shooting Policeman Walter Hoder when the latter failed to identify him.

PLAIN CAL SITS BY LOG FIRE AND WHIFFS CHICKEN

Coolidges Back in Old

Northampton, Mass., March 5.—(Special.)—Right at this minute, as this is being written, Calvin Coolidge is sitting in front of the blazing logs in his own front parlor whiffing Mrs. Emma Peckham's roast chicken and chuckling over poor Mr. Hoover in Washington.

Mrs. Coolidge is bustling about trying to get Tiny Tim, the chow, and Beana, the toy Boston bull, reconciled to living in this same household on terms of felicity with the batch of six new kittens in their box behind the kitchen coal stove.

Calvin Coolidge stepped off the special car where he had slept all night a few blocks from his own home at 8:40 o'clock this evening, looking like a school boy home for a vacation. He was grinning big and broad. Mrs. Coolidge was laughing like a school girl and tugging at the excited chow, which followed on a leash.

Everybody at Station.

In spite of pouring rain, the town turned out with umbrellas and gasolines, and everybody was at the station, from all the leading citizens to all the mill workers' little sons and daughters, whose faces shone with the reflected glory of having been born right in the same town where a President of the United States lives.

The only accident to mar the joyousness of the occasion—for it was a spontaneous, joyous, unpretentious welcome—was when Lieut. At Daisey of the state police, bit little 10 year old Irene Vanasse with his car, injuring her so seriously that she had to be rushed immediately to the Coolidge-Dickinson hospital, where Mrs. Coolidge's mother, Mrs. Lemira Goodhue, is confined, seriously ill.

The Coolidges, however, were not told of the accident, but proceeded home immediately. On Massachusetts street, as at the station, all the neighbors were out, shouting their greetings.

GIRL ROBBER'S PLEA REFUSED; GETS YEAR TO LIFE IN PRISON

Jean La Monte, 21 years old, was one of five robbers sentenced to the penitentiary yesterday by Judge John P. McGorty of the Criminal court. The judge refused to listen to a tearful plea from the girl that she be placed on probation and be given another chance.

Mrs. La Monte was arrested some weeks ago with three youths after they had committed a series of robberies on the northwest side. The youths pleaded guilty and were sentenced to the penitentiary. They attempted to take the blame for the crimes, but a jury found Mrs. La Monte guilty and she was sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary.

Frank Berendt, 21 years old, Edward Peccal, 19 years old, Casimir Pandanski, 22 years old, and John Kujala, also 22 years old, were sentenced to 1 to 20 years on each of 10 charges. The sentences will run concurrently. It is charged they had committed 56 robberies during their brief career. The police displayed 10 revolvers and one shotgun used by the robbers.

Coolidge's first words as he stepped off the car and looked about him at the cheering crowds. Then he shook hands with a Boy Scout from troop 101, to which his son, Calvin Jr., once belonged.

Mrs. Coolidge, on alighting, caught sight of her friend and neighbor, Mrs. R. B. Davis, and immediately flew into her arms and kissed her.

The band played "Home, Sweet Home." The Coolidges got in the car, followed by Dr. Coupal and Frank Stearns, who accompanied them from Washington, and drove down Main street.

They passed the new talkie house which has been named the Calvin. Mr. Coolidge noted it and turned to Mrs. Coolidge with a broad grin and spoke. Mrs. Coolidge laughed. The women were all commenting on how smart and pretty Mrs. Coolidge looked and how she hadn't hardly changed a bit. The neighbors also seemed to get quite a kick out of Mr. Coolidge's high silk hat and long velvet trimmed coat, which appeared a little incongruous in the pouring rain as they stood patiently posing for pictures at the request of the photographers who, with a frenzied momentum of Northampton youth, all aspiring to the presidency of the United States, were grouped on the station roof.

MARIEL CHURCH, VANDERBILT GIRL, WINS DIVORCE

"Happiest Society Marriage" Is Terminated.

Newport, R. I., March 5.—(Special.)—Mrs. Mariel Vanderbilt Church, whose marriage three years ago was hailed as one of the happiest in society, was divorced in record time today by Judge Edward W. Blodgett in superior court.

The decree was obtained on grounds of "refusing to provide," and was not contested, although Frederic Camm Church of Boston, the husband, was represented by counsel.

Neither principal was in court, nor were any witnesses present.

The first was that of Mrs. Church, in which she said she had been married on July 25, 1925, at Beachmont, Newport, the home of her mother, Mrs. Graham Fair Vanderbilt, by the Rev. Stanley C. Hughes.

Home Her Father's Gift.

Mrs. Church's testimony was focused with the statement that her father, William K. Vanderbilt, gave her the place, where she now lives, as a wedding gift. Recently a $160,000 house was built there for Mrs. Church's string of fancy horses.

"My husband has done almost nothing toward my support since our marriage," the affidavit continued. "I live upon my own income and on money given me by my father and mother. My husband is a man of means and has a good income, but has not contributed to my support."

The second deposition was that of Chief of Police James Bloomfield of New York, R. I., who, it appears, while he is not policing, is caretaker of the place. His deposition merely corroborated the fact of her residence there.

Mother Gives Testimony.

Mrs. Church's mother, Mrs. Fair Vanderbilt, gave the third deposition. She corroborated the facts of the marriage and Mrs. Church's residence and her desire to continue to maintain a Newport residence—a fact of some weight in the matter of the court's acceptance of jurisdiction.

Mrs. Church's counsel began to read a fourth deposition made by her sister, Mrs. Oswald Vanderbilt Smith, but Judge Blodgett halted the reading.

She was asked whether Mr. Church's counsel cared to speak. "I have nothing to say," replied William A. Peckham, the husband's attorney. The divorce then was granted.

THREE QUIZZED HERE ON $125,000 OMAHA HOLDUP

Two women and a man seized in the Hotel Sherman early yesterday were being questioned at the detective bureau last night regarding the whereabouts of two men wanted in connection with the $125,000 gem robbery in Omaha last Saturday. They were also questioned as to their possible knowledge of the robbery.

The women, Mrs. Eustach Doxy, 30 years old, and Mrs. Thomas McCauley, 42 years old, are wives of the men sought. Landall Doxy, brother of Eustach, was the man arrested.

All three denied any knowledge of the robbery. The women said that they had not seen their husbands for a month. Sergts. Thomas Alcock and Matt Quilter made the arrests. Chicago police believe the two sought for the Omaha robbery might have been two of three robbers who last August kidnaped Morris Kees, New York diamond salesman, in Omaha and robbed him of $100,000 in gems. Kees and Wilmer Kivett, his taxicab driver, were driven by the robbers to Wheaton, Ill., where they were thrown out of the car.

In last Saturday's robbery two men confronted Reuben Popkin, New York diamond salesman, in his room at a hotel, bound him with wire, and sealed his lips with tape. They then emptied his gem wallet.

STEWART BEATEN,
SAYS JOHN D.'S
OIL WAR GENERALAldrich Silent on What Will Happen Next.

(Picture on back page.)
Winthrop W. Aldrich, generalissimo of the forces of John D. Rockefeller in the battle to oust Col. Robert Stewart as chairman of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, was silently beaten yesterday
when he was granted his first interview since winning his avalanche of proxies to discharge.

As to the fruits of the predicted victory, Mr. Aldrich was silent. The only thing he would say was that the company would be voted to discharge
Col. Stewart forever from the company.

With a reiterated "I can say nothing about that," Mr. Aldrich dismissed every question seeking to learn the name of Col. Stewart's successor in the job which pays $125,000 a year and gives rule over the wealthy corporation. Mr. Aldrich refused to say whether the remaining eight directors of the board would be re-elected or some of them also disposed along with Col. Stewart. He declined to discuss candidates for the two vacancies which already exist on the board.

Fight on Company Decided.
What Mr. Aldrich did say was this:
"We have not yet decided the exact time for the board, but we shall not make any drastic changes in the personnel."
Richard E. Dwight, law partner of Charles Evans Hughes, chief of the Rockefeller counsel in the Stewart war, interjected a statement that there was no disposition whatever to interfere with the continued prosperity of the company, and he desired especially to stop any rumors that the underlying purpose of the battle was to curb the Indiana company's activities in territories heretofore considered as belonging to other Standard Oil companies.

Although Mr. Aldrich would not deny or deny reports that Ed G.
Hubert, president of the company under Col. Stewart, was to be retained, the reports persisted that the office of chairman would be discontinued, and Hubert left to operate the company as the chief executive officer. Dr. Wilson M. Burton, former president, and Franklin Martin, former general counsel, also are spoken of as likely recipients of directorships.

Two Directors May Lose Seats.
Two of the present directors may fall at the election, it was reported at the Standard Oil offices yesterday, one of them being L. L. Stephens, who was made general counsel and a director by command of Col. Stewart a short time ago. The other is Allan Heine, vice president in charge of sales, who has been active in Col. Stewart's behalf.

Asked to comment on published reports that the Rockefeller had proxies amounting between 4,500,000 and 4,600, 000 of the stock, as against 3,200,000
held by Col. Stewart, Mr. Aldrich said there was no way of telling the figures in the checking of the proxies of both sides had not been completed.

"However, I said in New York,"
Mr. Aldrich said, "that we held proxies for more than 50 per cent of the stock, and I repeat that statement now."

Col. Stewart is determined to fight to the last hour, his associates said yesterday. Many of them admitted he is determined, and he knows it, but he has not acknowledged that fact to his closest friends, it was said.

ROOT SOUNDS OUT FRENCH MINISTER ON WORLD COURT

Seeks Delegates' Opinion
on U. S. Entry.

BY ROBERT EAGE.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
GENEVA, March 5.—The preliminary maneuvers to sound out the sentiments of the members of the league of nations council concerning the means whereby the United States might enter the world court were opened this afternoon when Elihu Root, former secretary of state, had a long conference with Aristide Briand, French foreign minister. Similar conversations will take place with Sir Austen Chamberlain, British foreign minister, and Dr. Gustav Stresemann, German foreign minister, and others before the end of the week, as Mr. Root desires to secure a consensus of European opinion through these conversations in the same way as he obtained the American sentiment through conversations with Frank B. Kellogg, American secretary of state, and other members of the cabinet in Washington.

Favor Elastic Arrangement.
It is understood that Mr. Root thinks it is impossible for the United States or anybody else to draw up a list of subjects which could rigidly be classified as "interests." Instead of adhering to a set formula, it is believed he favors following an elastic arrangement as yielding the maximum chance for cooperation with the world court by the United States.

In case America adhered to the court, she would receive the customary request for an advisory opinion on all subjects and then would be entitled to state her own opinion. If the proposals forwarded from The Hague were unacceptable, Washington would be able to negotiate through the council in an effort to wriggle off the rough corners.

Coincides with Hoover.
The crystallization of Mr. Root's plan coincides with President Hoover's inaugural statement that the United States intends to cooperate with every useful international enterprise. An elastic method of cooperation is the keynote of Mr. Root's scheme for evading the bothersome reservation which the American senate decided against any request for an advisory opinion on a case of questions in which the United States has an "interest."

Lithuania's insistence in butting in during the meeting of the league during the minorities discussions offered an excuse for calling off the session and gave the delegates an opportunity to exchange calls the most important of which was the conversation between Mr. Briand and Dr. Stresemann in which the subject of evacuation of the Rhineland was broached.

SECRETARY TO COOLIDGE JOINS GOOD'S LAW FIRM

Everett Sanders, former secretary to Calvin Coolidge, has joined the Chicago law firm of Good, Childs, Bobb & Wescott, 221 South La Salle street. It was announced yesterday.

With the selection of James W. Good, the senior member, as secretary of war in President Hoover's cabinet, the firm now becomes Sanders, Childs, Bobb & Wescott.

For the present Mr. Sanders will have charge of the firm's office in Washington, D. C. Dwight S. Bobb said last night. The selection of the former secretary to the former President has been contemplated for some time, Mr. Bobb said, and did not hinge upon Mr. Good's elevation to the cabinet.

Mr. Sanders completed twelve years of public service Monday, eight of which were spent as a representative in congress from the Fifth district of Indiana and the remainder as secretary to President Coolidge. Prior to his entrance into politics he was an attorney at Indianapolis and Terre Haute.

figured walnut

a beautiful table
modestly priced

The graceful form and distinctive carving of Carolean design have been adopted here in building this coffee table of extremely pleasing style and proportion. Rich walnut is the wood used throughout, the galleried top showing fine burl figuring. It measures 23 inches high, 28 inches long and 19 inches wide. Such a table will stand out as an important addition to the finest room. Our price of $59.50 supports our claim that truly fine furniture needn't be expensive.

Does March suggest some changes in your home?

WHEN the first signs of spring show that the outdoor world has tired of its winter outlines and is thinking about some decorative changes, do you feel the urge to put fresh color in the indoor picture?

Perhaps just one piece of furniture will do it—an inviting chair, a quaint little table, or one of those fascinating cabinets that have such endless possibilities when they find their way into clever hands.

Furniture

Here You Will Find Many Interesting Groupings

Skillfully planned to inspire the new arrangement that you long for in your rooms. Or, if you like, you may have little groups assembled especially for you—such is the easy informality of the service here.

Among the many interesting items that go to make up the collections, there is a small arm chair of solid walnut, upholstered in etched velvet, green or red, priced at $36. And a charming pier cabinet, as decorative as it is practical, at $35.

Sixth Floor, Wabash.

And Oriental Rugs To Revive a Room Scheme

Here they are, in rich profusion—fine rugs, deep-piled and softly colored—in the useful scatter sizes that serve to draw the out-of-the-way corners into the room scheme. There is an enticing selection of them, in a variety of sizes and patterns. A particularly important group of small Bagdads and Mosuls are priced each, according to kind, at $21.75 to $28. Room size Teziaks, in an especially interesting group, are priced each at $195.

Ninth Floor, North, State.

A Lighter Touch of Color in China A Gayer Flash in Glass

These "between season" days find busy hostesses glad of a respite in which to make their plans for Spring entertaining—plans whose success will depend, to no slight degree—upon the selection of the right table service. The glass and china section is ready, now, with sparkling wares for the Spring table—gleaming and colorful bits of beauty that need only a skillful blending to make their charm complete.

Tables set just as they would be in the home are on display here—definitely expressing the new ideas in table decoration in every smart detail. The two-tone stemware is an interesting feature, priced from $4 to $12 a dozen, and in china there is everything lovely from a simple little breakfast set, modern in character, complete with 32 pieces at $8.50 to a handsome dinner service of 97 pieces at $37.50.

A delightful group of lamp bases is a center of interest just now. They are of pottery in the most effective colorings and artistic shapes. They range in price from $5 to $15.

Seventh Floor, North, State.

Curtains and Draperies Tell the Story to the Outside World

And so deserve to be chosen with much care and forethought and with due regard for their relation to the rest of the room. There is a wide assortment of fabrics, displayed to excellent advantage here, and prepared to report the best of taste when hung for the world to see at your windows. Everything to make choice interesting from dainty and colorful bedroom cretonnes, priced from 85c to $4.50 a yard, to luxurious damasks for the living room, ranging in price from $3 to $12 a yard.

Sixth Floor, North, State.

And the Kitchen Isn't Treated Like a Step-Child Any More

In fact, it receives quite as much attention as any room in the house! Small wonder, when there are so many delightful things to make it a place of real individuality and charm—where culinary skill can be practiced most agreeably—and with remarkable efficiency, too.

Among the smaller items available here—mixing bowls, flower patterned, are priced at $2 a set, a bright Kitchenette set is complete at $1.45, and an efficient new grating device is $1. As for the furniture, there is a small kitchen table at $8 and a convenient broom cabinet at $18.50.

STATE'S INSANE SLEEP ON FLOOR, RATEGAN SAYS

House Blocks Move for an Investigation.

BY CARL WARREN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
Springfield, Ill., March 8.—[Special.]—Conditions in state hospitals for the insane and feeble minded, described as "inhuman" and "disgraceful" under the small administration, today precipitated an hour of noisy debating in the house.

The outbreak was occasioned by a resolution, introduced by Representative Joseph L. Rategan of Chicago, a Democrat, providing for the appointment of a special committee to investigate the institutions. By a margin of two votes Republicans prevented a suspension of the rules to put the resolution on passage. The vote was 44 for suspension and 42 against. A two-thirds majority was required.

Instantly at Elgin and Danville are compelled to sleep on the floors because of crowded housing facilities, Rategan charged. Incapacitated war veterans, he declared, have only a pile of hay for sleeping quarters.

Admit Truth of Charges.

Opponents of the resolution, led by Roger F. Little, Republican floor leader, did not deny the truth of Rategan's charges. They argued, however, that the new Emerson administration should be given time to remedy them, pointing out that Rodney H. Brandon, director of the department of public welfare, has under way a building program that will put the Illinois institutions on a par with those of other states.

Some of the Republicans, it was said, felt that the investigation move was a partisan effort to hit the administration while its leaders are absent on the Hoover inaugural trip.

This was denied by Representative Rategan.

"I am not criticizing Gov. Emerson nor Mr. Brandon," he asserted. "They inherited these conditions. But I say it is the duty of the legislature to go to the bottom of the situation itself."

Relative Ask Amelioration.

Rategan said many persons with friends and relatives in the hospitals had come to him with pleas for assistance and produced letters from the heads of the institutions saying they could do nothing to help them.

Mr. Rategan said he would do his utmost to have the resolution brought before the house a second time in regular order when only a majority will be required for its passage.

Passes Sullivan Bill.

Four bills were passed by the house at today's session and several others advanced to second and third reading. Those passed included the McClurg bill to place the police pension funds of domestic cities under regulations in force in Chicago and the Sullivan bill to continue the employment of two supreme court commissioners at $10,000 a year until 1935.

DIRECTOR TELLS NEEDS

Years of neglect and lack of information have saddled the commonwealth of Illinois with an emergency in the care of its feeble-minded that will take millions of dollars and at least a decade to overcome. That was the message Rodney Brandon, newly appointed director of the state department of public welfare, yesterday gave the Illinois Society for Mental Hygiene, at a luncheon at the Palmer house.

That, however, was only a part of what he had to say. The rest consisted of a comprehensive and detailed plan by which the state may provide proper housing and care for these unfortunate patients—and ways and means of getting the problem before the governor, the general assembly, and the public, so that the need will be recognized and acted upon at the earliest possible moment.

"We have to let the governor and the people know the conditions that exist," he emphasized. "Over at Quincy three men are sleeping on two single cots, one lying on the crack between the two. At Lincoln the state of things is awful. There is need for segregation there as quickly as possible, for both men and all ages are mingling together in the most unhealthy and dangerous way. The sex problem is one of the most important."

If Back Hurts Flush Kidneys

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which helps to remove the body's waste and stimulate them to their normal activity.

The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of good water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they are no longer a source of irritation, thus relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this; also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.

IGOE OPENS WAR ON EMMERSON'S BALLOT BILLS

Wants Amendments

stretch of the imagination as a real decision by the voters on the amendment submitted.

"After going in to the subject since the bills were presented I am firmly convinced that an amendment declared adopted by such a method would be nullified by the Supreme court."

"On the second point, the steady even if gradual destruction of the present constitution, as all recognize that the present constitution is not perfect, but it certainly will be weakened, torn to pieces by wholesale patchwork."

Argues Against Proposal.

"But in spite of all this sound argument against the proposals in its present form, I believe there is a method of submitting amendments that would be an improvement over the present method of ascertaining the will of the voters, would observe fully the principles of the constitution, would go as far as possible in the direction desired by Gov. Emerson and be held valid by the Supreme court."

"That would be to amend the Emerson bills to provide that proposed constitutional amendments shall be printed above the names of the candidates and above the party circles, so that the voter must mark his cross in one of the squares either for or against the proposal."

"That, I'm convinced, would be entirely legal. A constitutional amendment is of such paramount importance that it should be brought prominently to the attention of the voter. In this way he would be called on to give it his attention before he takes up the question of candidates for whom he wishes to vote. He couldn't discard the question as he does now by throwing away the little ballot. Nearly every voter would vote one way or the other. We should have a genuine expression of the will of the voters. What Gov. Emerson wants to accomplish would be achieved as far as it is legally possible to do."

Warns of Danger.

Representative Igoe said further that he would not be surprised when his compromise plan is presented if Gov. Emerson approves the revision of the original idea.

"The danger to the constitution threatened by the present proposal," he added, "cannot be overestimated. Suppose that in the near future the gateway amendment is adopted—the one permitting three amendments at one election instead of the maximum of one now established. Can you imagine what would happen to the constitution if every few years the two state conventions agreed on amendments, and, by the sheer force of their organization vote cast in the party circles, took another chunk out of the constitution or put another patch on it? The prospect makes me shudder."

There has been no discussion on the Emerson bills in the senate. Igoe's program probably will start the battle there before the bills reach the house.

Russia and Latvia First to Agree on Kellogg Pact

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

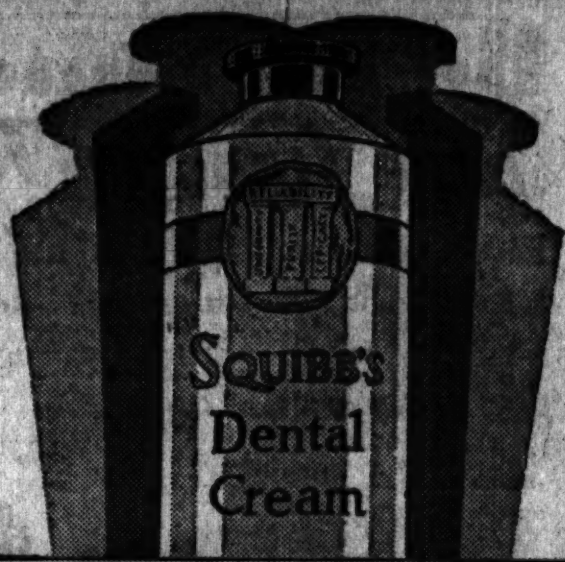

RIGA, Latvia, March 5.—Russia and Latvia are the first countries in the world to agree to immediately enforce the Kellogg pact for the outlawing of war.

Latvian Minister to Moscow Oso today presented to Acting Commissioner of Foreign Affairs Max Litvinov a note announcing that the Latvian parliament had ratified a special agreement bringing the pact into force between the two countries. The special agreement was also signed by Estonia, Poland, and Roumania, whose parliaments have not yet ratified the agreement.

Lithuanian Crop Failure Causes Great Suffering

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

KAUNAS, Lithuania, March 5.—The failure of the crops in northern Lithuania has necessitated government action, and the prime minister, Prof. Augustinas Voldemaras, has called a cabinet meeting to discuss the means of raising money after the failure of the relief commission to collect sufficient funds. The government estimates that $130,000 will be needed, and the committee, after a month's work, only succeeded in raising $4,000. It is proposed that government employees donate one per cent of their salaries for the next three months in order to assist the sufferers.

MODERN mouth hygiene today is principally concerned with the problem of combating the acids at The Danger Line which cause tooth decay and gum irritations.

That is why Squibb's Dental Cream, made with 50% Squibb's Milk of Magnesia, was developed. It neutralizes acids, particularly at The Danger Line.

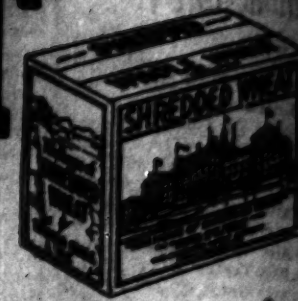

Thus Squibb's Dental Cream protects against decay in two ways. It cleans your teeth beautifully, and where it cannot clean it sends tiny particles of Milk of Magnesia to neutralize the harmful acids. Begin its use today. Harmless if swallowed. At drug stores, 40 cents a tube.

READY CASH AND NO REFERENDUM, IS DRAINAGE PLEA

Bombard Legislature with Pamphlets.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
Springfield, Ill., March 3.—(Special.)—In the desk of each member of the house there appeared today a booklet issued by the Chicago sanitary district entitled "Legislative Relief Is Essential."

When the senate, which was not in session today, assembles tomorrow copies of the publication will be distributed there. In this way the Chicago sanitary trustees hope to persuade the assembly to suspend the referendum imposed by the Small districts requiring that all bond issues be submitted to a referendum.

Cite Recent Reforms.
"To put a bond issue up to the people for a referendum vote at the present time is impractical," reads one section. "In view of the unfortunate conditions which have recently been imposed in connection with the operation and management of the affairs of the district a submission of a bond issue for public approval is in grave danger of rejection."

"Our attitude is that we have established in the sanitary district a new and better control of its affairs has passed into new hands, and that we have established an organization which is pledged to an orderly, economical, and efficient administration of the affairs of the district."

Fair Alarming Picture.
It is incumbent upon the legislature to repeal the present referendum law or to extend the date carrying it into effect for a sufficient period of time to enable the district to issue bonds without a referendum and thereby fulfill its contract and agreement with the government.

"The public works required must be constructed and put into operation before the water supply of the people of Chicago and environs will be infected, typhoid epidemics will result, the Chicago river will become a mass of sewage and the great bathing beaches on our lake front will become unsanitary."

Ethonian Shops Idle Due to Baltic Ice Conditions

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
Riga, Latvia, March 3.—Ethonian industry is closing down and thousands of workers are joining the ranks of the unemployed as the result of the unusual ice conditions in the Baltic, that prevent the delivery of raw materials and fuels to the factories. Among the hundreds of so-called frozen in the Baltic are a number of ships were transporting coal, iron, wool, and other supplies to Europe. The largest cotton spinning mills in Europe are at Narva, in Latvia.

Charles E. Woodward of Ottawa, Ill., recently appointed United States District Judge for Chicago, to succeed the late Judge Adam C. Clift, visited at the federal building yesterday and met his fellow judges on the federal bench.

Mr. Woodward's commission will probably arrive from Washington next week, when he will assume his duties. The new jurist posed for newspaper photographers in Judge James H. Wilson's chambers and told reporters he expected to bring his family to Chicago in a short time.

ANOTHER MEXICAN REVOLUTION.

News of the latest revolutionary outbreak in Mexico was read in this country with regret, though not with astonishment, by those who have kept in touch with Mexican affairs. For a brief period under Calles there was some reason to hope that the Mexican revolutionary might be broken, but the election campaign of Gen. Obregon was ominous. Long before the voting all the candidates but Obregon had met violent deaths. His election was followed shortly by his assassination. The present uprisings may be considered the inevitable consequence.

It would be a mistake to seek for issues of principle or policy as the cause of the revolt. There are none. There are, it is true, disaffected elements in Mexico which may welcome an opportunity to overthrow the government, but these elements, though they may support the revolutionary leaders, have not engendered the revolt. This uprising appears to be much like previous ones in that it is essentially the work of ambitious military men who desire to seize the government by force for the prestige and profit involved. When Obregon and Calles, who were men of more than average strength, were in office the probability of overthrowing them was not great; the present rebellion is an evidence that the Mexican president, Portes Gil, is not so highly regarded by the generals.

An effort may be made to show that the uprising is a revolt in the interest of the agrarian followers of Obregon or of the Catholic elements. Obregon was the arch enemy of the church, and the fact that the revolutionary movement has attracted strength apparently from both these quarters is in itself evidence that the revolution is not inspired by principles but by personal ambitions which will take advantage of any opportunity to gain a following. Where Catholic sentiment is strong the revolution will be pro-Catholic and where agrarian sentiment is strong the revolution will be agrarian.

There is nothing in this picture which is unfamiliar to those who have followed Mexican affairs in recent decades, but there is, perhaps, one new element in the situation and that is a military one. In recent years a semi-military police force has been on duty in Mexico City. The men are well drilled, well fed, well clothed, and far above the average of their countrymen in education and in physique. Mexico City is likely to belong to the party which controls this police force.

The duty of the American government in the emergency is to protect American lives and property. The justification of this policy does not lie in the benefits which Mexico will reap from it, but these benefits are nevertheless real and substantial. The principal hope of bringing about orderly government in Mexico lies in relieving the grinding poverty and ignorance of the Mexican masses. Where men have nothing to lose by revolution, and the hope of loot to urge them to it, the task of the military adventurers seeking to raise an army is not particularly heavy. In Mexico literacy has made the task even easier. The foreigners in Mexico are creating wealth which may serve as a foundation for internal stability. A prosperous Mexico might find the money for its two most urgent needs, roads and schools, without which hopes of permanent pacification are likely to be indefinitely deferred.

AN AIRPORT AT THE PIER.

By agreement between the district engineer of the war department and Chicago's harbor master pilots of seaplanes and amphibians are now privileged to use the protected water area north of Navy pier as a landing basin. The new regulation provides a terminal near the loop, with sheltered water and facilities for docking and anchorage.

The advantages of the Navy pier harbor as a terminal should attract those persons who have hesitated to purchase planes because of the inaccessibility of landing fields. An amphibian will carry the commuter from a cow pasture in the suburbs to within a mile of the loop at one hundred miles an hour. With a terminal but a few blocks from his office none of the speed or comfort of the trip is lost by the slow connection from the landing field to destination. The seaplane, together with an immediately available landing place, should promote the popularity of aviation in the everyday business of Chicago.

There are but few cities in the country which lack adequate harbor space in a central location. Aircraft used for commuting during the week may be put into tourist service over the week-end.

FEWER AUTOMOBILE
DEATHS.

Owner Bundeen reports that in the first two months of this year the number of deaths from automobile accidents decreased 26 per cent. In January and February last year his figures show 158 injuries, and this year 115, into deaths caused by automobiles. The coroner believes the improvement is the more remarkable because of the greater hazard from icy streets this year, and he attributes the improvement to widespread campaigns for safety.

When Dr. Bundeen has given more study to the subject of automobile fatalities he will discover that they are seldom numerous when weather conditions are least favorable to motoring. A reduction in the death rate this year, then, was to be expected. We know of no widespread campaigns for safety this year in contrast to last, and we venture to say with some certainty that there were no campaigns sufficiently widespread to achieve the results given in the coroner's tables.

While Dr. Bundeen's explanation is deficient, he deserves praise for taking an interest in the question of automobile deaths. A conscientious analysis by his department of the causes of automobile accidents in Cook county might prove extremely valuable in devising methods of prevention. At present no one knows how to reduce the number of automobile deaths because no one knows with any degree of assurance what causes them. The statistical data compiled by his predecessors are worthless for this purpose. Dr. Bundeen has an opportunity to perform a distinguished public service which will greatly enhance his reputation if he devotes himself to this problem. There were more than a thousand deaths from automobiles in Cook county last year.

FREE SPEECH IN MINNESOTA.

Representative R. R. Davis has introduced in the Minnesota legislature a bill for the repeal of the 1925 state law which permits the suppression of newspapers by process of injunction. The statute was invoked for the first time in the case of two Minneapolis weekly newspapers—the Twin City Reporter and the Saturday Press. They had been conducting a somewhat lurid campaign against vice conditions and officials in Hennepin county. Instead of protecting himself and his colleagues through libel action, the district attorney of Hennepin county had the papers silenced under the section of the 1925 measure providing for the suppression of publications engaged in printing malicious, scandalous, or defamatory matter.

The Twin City Reporter did not resist the decision, but the case of the Saturday Press was taken to the Minnesota Supreme court, which upheld the constitutionality of the newspaper injunction law. Convinced that the Minnesota statute contravenes the fundamental constitutional guaranty of freedom of the press, Mrs. Tinsman has arranged to have the law tested by the United States Supreme court.

The freedom of the press is a fundamental liberty. It should not require the construction of the Supreme court to maintain it. Mr. Davis argued convincingly for repeal of the statute. The law establishes a dangerous precedent. That it was designed for the suppression of disreputable publications does not insure that it will not be used as a political weapon to quiet legitimate criticism and it is an invitation for more drastic legislation. The laws of libel furnish adequate avenues for satisfaction of grievances. For those who have no justification for libel suit but who do have political influence, the newspaper injunction law offers the opportunity for dictatorial elimination of criticism.

The reputation of Minnesota has suffered by the enactment of this law and its enforcement. It can be redeemed by repealing the legislation through passage of the Davis bill.

THE OUTLAWING OF POISON GAS.

The fact that Germany and Poland have agreed to accept the protocol against the use of poison gas in warfare is claimed as something of a victory by those who have sought to abolish this weapon.

It would be remarkable if Germany, a great industrial nation, should agree not to employ gases in war but for the fact that Germany had already agreed not to use them in the Versailles treaty. She had little to lose by taking the pledge again. Poland's rejection of chemical warfare is also of small significance, because Poland is not equipped to manufacture gases on a large scale.

Only seven other nations have signed the protocol. Of them, Egypt, Italy, Russia, and Venezuela are in Poland's position. Austria is in Germany's. Belgium, which also signed, has some chemical industries, but Belgium cannot be considered a military power of great importance. France accepted the protocol with the reservation that she would use chemical warfare if her enemy did, a reservation which permits her to prepare for offensive use of chemicals and for defense against them.

The failure of the nations to approve the protocol will be interpreted as another evidence of international immorality, but that conclusion is not warranted. The fact is, it is an evidence of good faith between nations. The successful use of chemicals in the last war makes their subsequent use certain, and nations which agree not to fight with chemicals either are unprepared to produce them or are deceiving themselves and their neighbors.

Possibly the reluctance to outlaw gases has been furthered by the growing accumulation of medical testimony to the effect that gases are far less cruel than other weapons, such as high explosives. Gases were found to be highly effective in putting men out of action and in rendering positions untenable, but the number of men killed or permanently injured by gas was relatively small.

Editorial of the Day

THE INAUGURAL ADDRESS.

[New York Times.]

An literary composition President Hoover's inaugural address is somewhat disappointing. There is little in it to cause a quickening of spirit. It has no central animating theme which the speaker sought to get before the country as the motive and driving power of his administration. The whole makes something of the impression of a cross between one of Mr. Hoover's campaign speeches, which were seldom thrilling, and a presidential message to congress into which all sorts of disparate subjects are thrown as into a catch all. But Mr. Hoover has accustomed us to such defects of form in his public utterances.

Turning to the substance, it is easy to identify two positions which President Hoover is forced to take by political stress. One of them is his acknowledgment of support in the election by the Anti-Socialist league. He goes almost the full length of its doctrine about prohibition and the need of its right enforcement. However, he ties up with an ambitious plan to investigate and recognize the entire structure of "our federal system of jurisprudence." He favors a critical study of the whole "federal machinery of justice." The distribution of its functions, the simplification of its procedure, the better provision of additional special tribunals, the better selection of judges. It is plain that if such a large order is given to the national commission which Mr. Hoover proposes to appoint, its labors of inquiry and recommendation might easily remain unfinished when his own term of office expires.

THE BEGGING GOD.

He came at dawn,
A beggar who sought no bread:
I fancied that I saw an aureole
Around his head.

He came at noon,
And he was begging still:
I turned away and thought I saw
A cross upon a hill.

He came at dusk,
I proffered him my wealth in part;
He pushed away my gems and said,
"I only want your heart."

ANONYMOUS.

THE MANCHESTER SQUARE CASE.

Constable Buffins, who was shifted to Manchester Square for a few days to take the place of Constable Higgins, did not like his new post. He had been traveling beat in Whitechapel, and by comparison Manchester Square, as Constable Buffins often said, was "like walking about in a country graveyard." "Now in Whitechapel," grumbled Constable Buffins, "there was always something dead. Maybe a bit of a murder now and then, or a corner jumpin' on his mother because she wouldn't go down to the pub on the corner for a pitcher of bitter beer, or just a lady slapping her gentleman friend because 'she was havin' a bit of fun and 'appened to bust her blooming jaw when 'e took a bit of a swing at her face. But in Manchester Square, all gloomy and grand-like, with 'ouses shut tight and nobody walking in the street, except in the afternoon when the Yankee tourists herded by a blinkin' man from Cook's go by on their way to the Wallace Collection. But in the evening and at night so bloomin' lonely I can 'ear meself think."

It was under these distressing conditions that Constable Buffins commenced to pay more and more attention to the great, gloomy mansion occupied by Sir Algernon Somerset. Sir Algernon was getting on Constable Buffins' nerves. Every time Mr. Buffins passed the house (and during his period of duty, between 3 and midnight, he passed it many times) there sat Sir Algernon in the big, wide window staring, sternly and coldly, straight at him.

Constable Higgins, before going away, had not acquainted Constable Buffins with the fact that Sir Algernon was dead, and apparently from a bullet in the center of his forehead. Constable Higgins regarded Mr. Buffins as a dunder no end, and if he found out Sir Algernon was dead he would dance around and get Scotland Yard and the newspaper reporters all over the place and mess everything up. Constable Higgins, knowing his own great ability as a sterling detector of crime to have gone long unrecognized and unrewarded by his superiors, had determined to take the Manchester Square murder into his own hands and solve the mystery before the newspapers and Scotland Yard even suspected that Sir Algernon was dead. So Constable Buffins continued to march impressively past the Somerset mansion half a dozen times a day without suspecting that within that somber mansion lurked grim tragedy.

But Sir Algernon, sitting so quiet and still and glaring at him through his monocle with such cold sternness, was getting to be more than Constable Buffins could stand. And one evening a thought dashed through his large, fat head.

"I believe," he said, firmly, to himself, "that the blinkin' old blunder is sick! Strike me blind, 'e may be dead! I'll jolly well 'ave a look."

To think, with Constable Buffins, was to act.

DOCTRINE FUNDAMENTAL.

Child of longings, learn
That midnight tears are wasted.
From faithlessness, once tasted,
As solace, current tomes—
Forgotten as a prank—
Knowing that love lies not there, lost,
Upon a darkening bank.

Seem'd loosed on a river—
A swift, unchanging stream—
With life always the giver
Of the firm, basic dream.
One man or his brother—
Tranquilly unreal.
That heart will find another
Which still has power to feel.

"WELL," said Henry Suydam Monday, "as well to the man who never heard of H. I. Mencken and half to the man who never wants to hear of him again."

THE MEXICAN REVOLUTIONISTS captured Monterey yesterday, thereby crowding Chicago off the first page, all being quiet in this sector. But wait, you can't keep a good town down.

AND HERE was the senate all set and a-rarin' to go when Uncle Andy's name came in. But Uncle Andy's name didn't come in. The news came from the White House that Andy was a hold-over, and, having been confirmed once, he didn't have to go through the mill again. Mr. Hoover may not have had much training in American politics, but it must be said he is fully acquainted with his onions. And Mellons.

AND OLD Ed Moore says things are different now and he thinks Mr. Hoover will be able to turn Andy into a watermelon. ("Retten," said Frank. However, for a music critic, not so bad.)

"HA, HA!" says the senate. "We see you, Andy Mellon, you little rascal! You didn't come through with the rest of the boys, but we see you hidin' behind that rose bush over in the White House. Come out, Andy, we see you!"

THOSE ROOSEVELT BOYS have reported to the Field museum that they have been hunting in Thibet and have bagged a very fine sambar, to say nothing of a serow. A sambar, as you know, sits on the end of the limb of the jupoo tree and eats ice cream with a silver fork, while a serow perambulates his whiskers with eau de cologne and stands on his head in the bath tub.

HOW WE DID cheer when Col. Roosevelt hung the big stick up behind the White House door. But we never dreamed that some day it was going to be used on us.

YOU UNDERSTOOD CORRECTLY. E. A. D. writes: Some time ago I read an article by a physician in one of the national weeklies wherein he stated that our general physical well-being and resistance to disease depended in large measure on the alkalinity of the blood. I gathered from his article that the normal blood condition is slightly alkaline, and that when this is reduced so as to approach neutrality, or even acidity, conditions are favorable for infections of many kinds.

Will you kindly advise me if I have the correct understanding, and if so, outline the diet that tends to maintain this desired alkalinity.

ELEVATED SIDEWALK. Chicago, Feb. 25.—(Friend of the People.)—At about twice the cost of private cars, the city of Chicago has decided to build a sidewalk last summer, which, at the end of our block, hangs suspended in mid-air about seven feet. If an adept mountain climber, you may descend therefrom by a rope of feet and a perilous footing across the street, ascending to the equally high sidewalk on the other side. This crossing is only a ridge of dirt thrown up and on each side there is a drop of two or three feet, one side being a ditch filled with sewer water.

Our expensive sidewalk, therefore, leads to nothing, and we are using the cinder road as of yore—some seven years. Is there not some way by which we may have a crossing which makes an expensive investment of some use to us? The corner I have reference to is Indian road and Linden avenue. F. S. C. Report is made of our city ward forces are now stalling in Linden avenue at the intersection of Indian road, which will relieve condition complained of.

TRINITY LAW DEPARTMENT. "NOT THEIR FUNERAL." Chicago, Feb. 25.—(Legal Friend of the People.)—The first part of "last month" I purchased a living room rug from a certain furniture company. I made a down payment of $1. My old furniture was to be taken as part payment. Several days later sickness overtook me and my children, leaving me without employment and in bad financial condition. I went to the company and explained the situation, telling them to cancel the contract. They replied that it was not their funeral and that they would force me to pay the balance of the rug.

Since then I have received several statements to the effect they were putting the matter in an attorney's hands for collection and threatening to sue me. With the furniture now in my home, can they do this? My wife and I signed the contract at the time of purchase. Am I compelled to accept the goods? W. T. M. It seems probable that the goods of the contract authorize the course they threaten. TRINITY LAW DEPARTMENT.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

MARCH 6, 1864. WASHINGTON.—There is no harm now in stating that the principal if not the sole object of Gen. Sherman's movement eastward from Vicksburg was the destruction of railroads west and north of Meridian, Miss. To prevent the enemy from troubling the navigation of the Mississippi river and from making raids within our lines in that country.

WASHINGTON.—The Richmond Examiner, Feb. 24, says concerning Sherman's expedition: "It is supposed that the Tennessean, finding his designs on Mobile thwarted, and his cavalry reinforcements intercepted, and being in distress for supplies, was forced to abandon his expedition and betake himself to the desperate expedient of passing through a country stripped of its supplies and laid waste by his advance."

CHICAGO.—The notorious guerrilla, Richardson, whose life was black with murder, has at last been sent out of the world by a federal bullet. He was shot near Cave City, Ky., when attempting to escape from his captors. He should have died by the halter.

CHICAGO.—H. W. Cady of Chicago and Miss Jenny Clark, daughter of J. N. Clark of Battle Creek, Mich., were married in the latter city on March 3 by the Rev. D. Harrington.

CHICAGO.—Col. De Land and his sharpshooters, at his request, have been relieved of duty at Camp Douglas and Col. James C. Strong of the 15th Invalid corps, assumed command.

CHICAGO.—The following were nominated on the regular ticket for officers of the Young Men's association: President, H. M. Shuppard; vice president, George M. Kimball and U. H. Crosby; secretaries, J. H. Clarkson and W. D. Kerfoot, and treasurer, Jacob G. Conrad.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

MARCH 6, 1899. WASHINGTON.—Secretary Alger's resignation from the cabinet is generally expected within a few weeks. He himself denies any immediate intention of retiring and says he will not go out until the best inquiry is made. Gen. Miles either substitutes his charges or it proved unreliable. Political advisers of the Presdent are bringing pressure to force his retirement.

BLOOMINGTON, Ill.—Mrs. Sarah Stevenson, mother of ex-Vice President Adlai E. Stevenson, died today after an illness of several weeks. She was 90 years old.

NEW YORK.—The Herald prints the following: "Mrs. Edward C. Wolcott, wife of the United States senator from Colorado, has begun proceedings for divorce from her husband on the ground of incompatibility of temper. She was formerly Mrs. Lyman K. Bass of Buffalo and her marriage to Senator Wolcott in St. Paul's cathedral, Buffalo, in 1890, was one of the notable events of Buffalo society."

TOULON, France.—Probably 60 per cent of the crew of the French battleship of the explosion of the naval review magazine of La Goulbarn in southern France. The number of dead may never be known as many of the victims were blown to fragments.

10 YEARS AGO TODAY

MARCH 6, 1919. CHICAGO.—J. Norman Cook testified in his own defense that he had stabbed William E. Bradley to death in self-defense on Aug. 29 last after Bradley had attacked him. He declared that his only motive in seeking Bradley that night was to make a claim for $10,000, which was the world's safe for Norman Cook, his 18 year old daughter, with whom Bradley, a man of middle age, was deeply infatuated.

CHICAGO.—Charles E. Chadsey of Detroit was elected superintendent of Chicago schools by a board of education vote of 11 to 4. Acting Superintendent Peter A. Mortenson was appointed to the newly created office of associate superintendent at a salary of $12,000. Chadsey's salary is to be $11,000.

CHICAGO.—President Wilson commuted the sentence of John F. Jelle, millionaire Chicago oleomargarine manufacturer, from two years' imprisonment to sixty days and a fine of $10,000. He was convicted in 1914 for conspiracy to cause certain individuals to evade the tax on artificially colored oleomargarine.

LONDON.—The British government has decided to release all Irish political prisoners, the Daily Mail says. To prevent a great public demonstration, the prisoners will return to Ireland in small batches.

HOOPER'S SECRETARY OF AGRICULTURE.

Chicago, March 4.—It is probably impolite to criticize the President of the United States on the day he is inaugurated, but I cannot refrain from expressing my sympathy for him in his selection as secretary of agriculture.

As a former Missourian and newspaper man, I recall Arthur Hyde's very poor record as governor, albeit his address in Republican politics. As to his fitness for the important post of secretary of agriculture, it is unthinkable. Mr. Hoover has been harmed in this connection by ill advice from Republican politicians. And yet this is the type of man that it is expected will offer a solution of the all important farm problem which is confronting the country. What a pity!

THE NEW CABINET.

Chicago, March 4.—Incumbent in Tim Tarrance read that 90 per cent of all United States senators are of English descent. Now along comes President Hoover with his cabinet selections, who are about 100 per cent English. Could he not find able men with such names as Schulz, Wagner, Allighieri, Oesterbaan, Koedusko, or Chlopousko, to sit in his cabinet? Is Great Britain still dominating this nation? Year in and year out you find the same English crew in the White House.

The great melting pot let's have that same melting pot represented in Washington. M. COLEMAN.

QUESTIONS HOOPER'S INDEPENDENCE.

Chicago, March 4.—Prior to the election last fall we were led to believe by a great many that Mr. Herbert Hoover was about the last say in presidential selection. By the Roman Catholic in the White House, the last say in presidential selection was the closest to that degree that could be procured. I did not vote for him, but I like to respect the will of the majority.

We are to believe now that this high grade man is taking orders from others? A READER.

PHILIP VANCE.

Chicago, March 4.—In reading through this morning's Tribune I notice you make mention of Philip Vance. It appears to me that you found him to be a real person. If so, then how do you account for the fact that Mr. Van by Roman Catholic in the White House, the last say in presidential selection was the closest to that degree that could be procured. I did not vote for him, but I like to respect the will of the majority.

DOWNSTATE VINTAGE.

Macomb, Ill., March 4.—Your editorial columns and your vet correspondence refer to the Christian temperance men and women of this country as violators of the constitution when they advocate obedience to law and decency; but it is the rebels and violators of the constitution. The Tribune and its gang of lawbreakers remind me of the copperheads and the Knights of the Golden Circle of the days of '61 to '65. While we soldiers were at the front defending Old Glory for the preservation of the Union, they were home mobbing sick and wounded soldiers who were home on furlough.

THE TRIBUNE is eternally howling about the constitution being violated and how Cook county is being imposed upon; but the Tribune now has more than a million inhabitants that are not naturalized citizens, yet THE TRIBUNE is demanding additional representation for these people, most of whom are engaged in the illicit sale of intoxicating liquor and committing other offenses against the law. FIVE COUNTIES HALF OF GAS TAX, SIMPSON URGES

Asks Igoo to Work for Amendments.

A half and half division of gasoline tax money between the counties and the state is urged upon the legislature by an amendment to the pending gas tax bill in a letter yesterday from Michael L. Igoo, minority leader of the house at Springfield. Chicago is disappointed because of the failure to get the gasoline tax measure passed last year. "The Chicago County members of the legislature gave splendid support to the proposition of a two-cent, instead of a three-cent, gas tax, and to the effort to get a proper proportion of the gas tax revenues allocated to the cities. Representatives of the city council, the county board, the league of municipalities, the Chicago Motor club, and the Plaza commission did all in their power, but without avail."

Would Concentrate Efforts.
Judging from the decisive vote by which the senate declined to approve any of the amendments submitted by the delegation, there seems to be no chance that the legislature will pass a bill imposing a tax of three cents per gallon upon gasoline motor fuel. Under the circumstances it is well to concentrate upon an attempt to secure the following three amendments.

"1. A 50-50 division between the state and the counties, instead of the present proposal of one-third to the counties and two-thirds to the state. 2. A provision that the money received from the gas tax shall not be placed in the state treasury, but shall be remitted monthly to the various county treasuries."

"Gov. Emmerson says that he is of legal opinion to the effect that counties now have authority to spend money on highways within city limits. An amendment which would specifically grant this authority in connection with the gas tax seems to me to be desirable."

Would Collect State Funds.
An effort should be made to get the state to pay to Cook county the money which it owes the county on account of state aid roads financed by the county through bond issues.

"It is my understanding that the highway law provides that when roads which have been paved by the county are included in the $50,000,000 bond system of roads the state shall pay to the county one-half the cost of the roads. I am informed by the Cook county highway department that under this provision of the law the state owes Cook county something like $1,000,000, to be paid in 1929."

"The state has already been provided for a state appropriation, but has not yet been paid to Cook county, although I believe some other counties have received the money due them, and that the funds to cover the Cook county item are now in the state treasury."

Expects Governor's Help.
I believe that Gov. Emmerson is extremely desirous of giving Chicago and Cook county fair treatment, and the house insists upon a fifty-fifty division, with the payments made directly to the counties, the governor and the senate might agree to change the pending bill to cover these items, and also to make the necessary arrangements to pay Cook county the money due it."

"It seems that the legislature will not allocate to the cities any of the gasoline revenue, and therefore the cities can obtain relief only through the counties. Consequently, I deem it the part of wisdom to use every effort to secure for the counties as large a share as possible of the proposed tax, and later to use every effort to have the Cook county commissioners allocated to the cities a fair and just proportion of the amount received by them from the gasoline tax."

"With a larger share of the gas tax money, and with the payment of the amounts due it, Cook county would then be in position to assist in providing some of the needed traffic relief for the city limits, as well as in providing liberty for the county."

Convenience, when you want it most

One of the most successful business centers in the world is the Fifth Avenue Building. The Fifth Avenue Building, headquarters for buyers from many countries, is in the commercial heart of New York. It is accessible from anywhere in the city. Grand Central Station is but a few minutes away, by subway, Pennsylvania Station, ten. Buses and surface cars pass the door, a subway entrance is downstairs, an elevated line is within a block.

This convenience extends indoors as well. There is an excellent restaurant on the ground floor, a valet service at your summons, banking facilities, a gymnasium, handball courts—all these to make business pleasant in this building.

LEGISLATURE TO GET HOME RULE PROPOSAL TODAY

Amendment Provides for Charter Convention.

Home rule for Chicago and Cook county is the subject of a proposed constitutional amendment which will be presented to the legislature at Springfield this morning. It was prepared by J. Scott Matthews, chief examiner of titles of the Torrens system, and it is to be introduced in the house by Representative William G. Thon and in the senate by Senator Arthur A. Huebner. Its purpose is to give Chicago complete self-government in local affairs.

The proposed amendment, which applies to four sections of article 10, provides for a convention to frame a charter for Cook county. The charter is to provide an alternative:

1. One general government for the entire county of Cook and the unification and consolidation of all local governments.

2. One general county government with local self-government through cities, villages, districts, or other local governments.

Merge Only by Ballot. In no case shall the charter provide for the consolidation or abolition of any local government without the consent of a majority of its voters.

The amendment gives home rule on such matters as rates of local taxation, the regulation of public utilities, such as gas, electricity, telephone, and telegraph; the regulation of the transit problem on a metropolitan basis, and on the building of a subway. It gives powers to regulate, license, acquire, own, lease, construct, or operate means of transportation, including elevated railroads, street railways, omnibus lines, and aviation within the county.

SENATE. Held only perfunctory session as agreed upon adjournment last week.

HOUSE. Delayed resolution to investigate state hospital conditions after an hour's debate.

NEW BILLS.—By Harris, to require lobbyists to register and report their expenditures; by Igoe, to repeal Crowe bill restricting appointment of special prosecutors; by Igoe, to appropriate $185,000 to complete naval militia armory in Chicago; by Igoe, to appropriate $115,000 to complete 124th field artillery armory in Chicago; by Soderstrom, labor union bill to increase awards under workmen's compensation act an average of $300.

Mr. Matthews declares his proposed amendment, which in effect is an enabling act, not only contemplates home rule for Cook county but preserves home rule for the smaller community or government.

Saves $6 Millions, He Says.

"Even though the people decided to keep every local government now existing in Cook county," he says, "it has been estimated that over $60,000,000 annually could be saved by unification and coordination of like activities in the many governmental bodies. This amendment makes such unification and coordination possible."

PASS ORDINANCE TO PAY EVANSTON JUDGES SALARIES

The Evanston city council at its regular meeting last night passed an ordinance providing a yearly salary of $6,000 to police magistrates in place of the customary fees which have prevailed since 1872. This new ordinance amends an ordinance passed in that year providing a fee of $3 on a plea of guilty in criminal cases and $5 in contested cases to police magistrates and justices of the peace. The latter are not affected by the new order and will continue to serve on the fee basis.

Passage of the ordinance came after the council's judiciary committee had obtained a written acceptance of the new basis from each of the four candidates for police magistrate in the election of April 2. The candidates are Police Magistrate Charles G. Franklin, Justice of the Peace W. R. Brightman, J. J. Schram, and Owen F. Andrews, who has made the fee question an issue in the present campaign.

SARGENT FREES MILLER BEFORE QUITTING OFFICE

Washington, D. C., March 5.—(AP)—Thomas W. Miller, former alien property custodian, convicted of conspiring to defraud the government in the handling of German property during the world war, was granted his freedom on parole today by Attorney General Sargent a few hours before Sargent was succeeded in office by William D. Mitchell.

Just two months ago Mr. Sargent announced he had disapproved a parole for Miller. He gave no reason for his altered attitude today.

Miller was convicted in 1927. The jury disagreed in the case of former Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty; his co-defendant, Miller, was sentenced to serve eighteen months in Atlanta penitentiary and fined $5,000. He started serving his sentence last April.

Joliet Milk Strikers Dump 2 Truckloads from Chicago

Striking milk producers of the Joliet area yesterday dumped two truckloads of milk sent from Chicago in an effort to combat the strike. The farmers waylaid the trucks, carrying a total of 11,000 pounds of milk, on the outskirts of Joliet. Both trucks were bound for the Flint Sanitary Milk company of that city. One was sent by the International Dairy company of Chicago. The other contained milk gathered in Chicago by the independent dealers of Joliet and sent to the Flint company for distribution. The strikers are demanding a price of $2.90 a hundred pounds for their product instead of the $2.64.

TWO KILLED IN STRIKE RIOT. ATHENS, March 5.—(AP)—Two persons were reported killed and five injured today in a clash with police following a strike at Athens.

BUILDING OWNERS DISCIPLINED IN ANTI-SMOKE WAR

Notices were sent to 192 building owners by Frank A. Chambers, in charge of smoke abatement, to appear at the city hall in connection with violations of the anti-smoke ordinance occurring during February, according to the monthly report issued yesterday. The report shows that the smoke observers had 6,854 chimneys under observation during the month and investigated 664 complaints. Instructions in the proper methods of firing to eliminate a heavy discharge of smoke were given to firemen at 1,683 buildings and plants. Of the complaints 218 were met by having the fuel or method of firing changed or having the stack raised.

Do You Feel This Badly

Yes, he is headache, and bilious, and peevish and sour both in stomach and mind, chuck full of poisonous acids that no human body could stand. A sad picture of what happens to men, women and children, who are suffering from poisonous acid stomach conditions leading up to chronic dyspepsia.

ACIDINE, the wonderful new discovery, stops all these conditions, relieves indigestion, colds and rheumatism caused by acids, and sleeplessness due to gas. Chronic dyspepsia, as well as those who over-indulge in food or drink, find ACIDINE with its sure, swift, safe relief almost priceless to them. Containing the newest and best combination of digestants and anti-acids, ACIDINE is unequalled in its effectiveness. Your druggist has it, or write Health Laboratories, Inc., Pittsburgh, Pa.

Shall a girl smoke?

"Stains Disappeared Like Magic," writes Miss Adele Leigh of Staten Island, N. Y.

"All you say about smoking being injurious to the teeth is true! I know—because I smoke like a trooper, and I've had the unpleasant experience of watching my once-white teeth become badly discolored."

"But fortunately your claims for Pebecco are also true. I began to use your marvelous tooth paste about three weeks ago—and what a difference it makes!"

"The dull stain just disappeared like magic—and my mouth felt so clean and good. In fact, that's what I like about Pebecco—more than anything else—its fresh, cool taste. You can count on me as a lifetime customer."

Yours very truly,
(Signed) Adele Leigh

an Oral {NOT A MORAL} Question

IN THIS modern age it is no longer a matter of ethics. Simply a question of oral hygiene.

For smoking can be ruinous to a girl's personal charm.

Tobacco fumes quickly discolor teeth—dry up mouth glands—taint the breath with a rank, stale odor. Unpleasant to you—and to others.

Veteran men-smokers have fought these conditions for years. And thousands have overcome them with a remarkable tooth paste—created specially for the purpose.

Pebecco does its work by stimulating a normal flow of alkaline saliva.

This saliva bathes the teeth—washes away tobacco stains and harmful mouth acids—whitens, brightens the enamel.

Give Pebecco a month's trial. See how your whole mouth glows with health and cleanliness.

Made by Pebecco, Inc., a division of Lehn & Fink Products Company. Sole distributors, Lehn & Fink, Inc., Bloomfield, N. J. Distributed in Canada by Lehn & Fink (Canada) Limited.

PEBECO TOOTH PASTE

MOUTH EVER FEEL PARCHED after smoking? Or taste like stale tobacco? You'll welcome Pebecco, men! It's a real smoker's tooth paste... unlike any you have ever used before.

Tune in on the Lehn & Fink Radio Serenade—every Thursday evening at 7 o'clock, over Station KTW.

2 LA FOLLETTE PARTISANS LOSE POSTS IN G. O. P.

National Committee Seats Vets' Faction.

Washington, D. C., March 5.—[Special.]—Election of George Vils and Mrs. Mary Thomas as members of the Republican national committee from Wisconsin today ended, so far as the national committee is concerned, a bitter factional row in that state. Vils and Mrs. Thomas were named by the executive committee of the Republican national committee, which is still to deal with a similarly vexing problem in Georgia tomorrow.

During the recent campaign, the national committee recognized Vils and Mrs. Thomas as heads of the party in Wisconsin instead of Herman Ekern, the state chairman, and Mrs. Elizabeth McCormack, both active members of the La Follette radical group.

Tangle in Georgia.

The problem of building up a white Republican party in the south is involved in the Georgia case, where there is a contest for recognition between J. F. Flanders, white, and Joseph Watson, a Negro. Watson and Ekern, another Negro, were elected national committeemen by rival factions and the contest was referred to the national committee. Davis withdrew and is now supporting Flanders.

Mississippi a Puzzle.

The situation in Mississippi, where Perry Howard, Negro, and former special assistant attorney general, is national committeeman, also was discussed by the executive committee.

GEN. DAWES RETURNS TODAY, A PRIVATE CITIZEN OF EVANSTON

Charles G. Dawes, former Vice President of the United States, accompanied by Mrs. Dawes, will return to Chicago a private citizen this morning. Gen. Dawes will resume his duties as chairman of the board of directors of the Central Trust company, according to E. F. Mills, one of Mr. Dawes' secretaries, who arrived in Chicago with a party including Miss Virginia Dawes, 78 year old daughter, before getting in the car to go to her home in Evanston. Miss Virginia stopped and got her dog, a big shaggy red-brown one, from the baggage car. She made just one comment on the inauguration: "It rained."

Howard was tried and acquitted on a charge of harboring federal patronage. The executive committee was said today to be without power to oust Howard, but plans for encouraging the development of a white state organization were discussed.

Harry McInnes Appointed La Grange Chief of Police

Harry McInnes, for twenty years head of the private police of Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co., was appointed police chief of La Grange, Ill., where he resides, at a meeting of the La Grange village board yesterday. He replaces Harry Greenlee, superintendent of the village public works, who has been acting chief since the resignation of Henry Pullman a month ago.

King George Walks from Bedroom to Sun Parlor

LONDON, March 5.—For the first time today since his stay at Bognor, on the Sussex coast, King George walked from his bedroom to an adjoining "sunroom," where he sat for several hours enjoying the glorious sunshine. The king is impatient to explore the grounds, but the weather is considered too uncertain yet.

RIVAL CHINESE ARMIES MASS; BATTLE PENDING

Nationalists Will Press War Against Hankow.

BY CHARLES DAILEY.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

PEKING, March 5.—Rival Chinese armies are concentrating on the eastern borders of Hunan and Hupeh provinces, where there has been further fighting. Transports are loading at Hankow to go up the Yangtze-kiang river, which indicates that the Nationalist government is determined to press the warfare against the Hankow government.

Gen. Lu Tsi Ping, Nationalist commander at Hankow, has telegraphed Nanking asking who is his superior, Gen. Chiang Kai-shek or the political council at Hankow. He says the latter has directed his troops to take over the government at Changshu.

The increase in the commandeering of steamers on the Yangtze-kiang river indicates that there is to be a general attack on the Kwangsi clique.

The Peking and Tientsin Nationalist commanders have wired Gen. Chang Hsueh-liang to dispatch a Manchurian squadron of warships, but the latter declined, saying he could not spare them. Gen. Feng Yu-shan, the Christian general, who holds the balance of power, maintains silence and the outlook is gloomy.

May Postpone Election.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

SEANGHAI, March 5.—China's attempt to hold its first national election for delegates to the third congress of the Kuomintang party is resulting in political manifestations which may cause a postponement of the congress, which had been scheduled for March 15.

In Hunan province, following the outing of Gen. Lu Tsi Ping, friend of Gen. Chiang Kai-shek, Nationalist generalissimo, whom the Hunan authorities charge with laxness in dealing with the communists, the situation is critical.

Say Outbreak Is Unlikely.

The military leaders insist that a military outbreak is unlikely, but the movements of the troops are causing disturbing rumors and unsettling the local markets.

In reports from Tokio it is stated that the Japanese government has decided to keep its troops in Shantung province until next June, owing to the unsettled conditions due to the comeback of Gen. Chang Chung-chang. The Japanese diet has been asked to appropriate an additional $1,250,000 for additional expenditures.

Marshal Chiang Kai-shek has appealed to Gen. Chang Hsueh-liang of Fukien for help to suppress Gen. Chang Chung-chang.

Terrible Eczema Goes Quickly

Strong, Powerful Yet Safe, Surge's Prescription Called Moore's Emerald Oil Has Astonished Physicians.

There is one simple and inexpensive way to reduce the danger of swollen veins and hemorrhoids, and get them down to normal, and that is to apply Moore's Emerald Oil night and morning, using the Moore's Bandage to support them during the day. People who have painful, enlarged veins should not neglect them, for they sometimes burst and cause much misery and expense.

Moore's Emerald Oil, besides being so marvelously antiseptic that it destroys germs and poisons caused by germs, is such a remarkable healing agent that eczema, hemorrhoids, itch, salt rheum and other inflammatory skin eruptions go in a few days.

For years it has been used for boils, ulcers, abscesses and open sores that discharge and with the most perfect success. Any druggist will be glad to supply you. International Lab., Rochester, N.Y.

9 out of 10 Screen Stars guard their skin this way

NO MATTER where you see it—on the street, at dinner, on the screen—your heart beats a little faster in response to a faultlessly lovely skin.

"The most important thing in making a girl lovely is an exquisite smooth skin," says Clarence Badger, Paramount—and sums up the opinion of 39 leading directors in Hollywood.

"Because beautiful skin charms people so, it is a first essential for screen stardom," he continues. "Velvety skin is the treasured possession of every screen star."

As Clara Bow says, "A beautifully smooth skin means even more to a screen star than to other women."

Of the 451 important actresses in Hollywood, including all stars, 442 (98%) keep their skin smooth and lovely with Lux Toilet Soap. Little wonder, then, that all the great film studios have made this white fragrant soap the official soap in their dressing rooms.

When you see your favorite star in the close-up, remember that nine out of ten screen stars use Lux Toilet Soap for smooth skin.

DRUGS VALUED AT ONE MILLION SEIZED IN RAID

Name of Rothstein Figures in Case.

New York, March 5.—(Special).—The sinister name of Arnold Rothstein resounded from the slain gambler-racketeer's grave today as federal agents, penetrating further into the heart of the drug ring which is operating with New York as its base, today arrested four men and seized at an American Railway Express company station a large quantity of heroin, morphine and gum opium valued at street prices at $1,000,000.

Papers found in the possession of the prisoners revealed the fact that Rothstein, who was shot in a room in the Park Central hotel here, had paid them money and had received money from them, according to United States Attorney Charles Tuttle, who said that the Rothstein Mortgage company, which Rothstein is said to have controlled, was involved in the exchanges of cash.

STIMSON URGES U. S. CO-OPERATE WITH FILIPINOS

TOKIO, March 5.—Henry L. Stimson, secretary of state in the new Hoover cabinet and outgoing governor general of the Philippine Islands, on his departure from Japan this morning expressed the conviction that the Philippines need a governor general who will cooperate with the Filipinos and not antagonize them.

"I believe such co-operation more important than independence talk," he said. Reviewing his achievements in the Philippines, he cited the revision of the banking laws and corporation laws, freeing American capital from many restrictions formerly placed on it. Mr. Stimson will arrive at San Francisco on March 20.

Two Schoolgirls Start to Hollywood; Reach Moline

Two schoolgirls who set forth for Hollywood to become film stars, their only capital being the checkbook of one of the girls' fathers, were on their way back to their classes yesterday from Moline, where they were seen on the streets by a family friend.

They are Edna Bergerson, 14 years old, and Beatrice Stasack, 13. Beatrice is an orphan living at the Bergerson home, 4859 Strong street. The girls attend the Beaubien school.

COURT REJECTS VOTE CONTEST AGAINST JUDGE

A contest against the election of Judge Frank Comerford to the Superior bench on June 6, 1937, came to an end yesterday when the United States Supreme court at Washington dismissed, without comment, a petition for a writ of certiorari filed in behalf of Andrew Donovan, who ran in the election as a "Citizens Non-Coalition" candidate. The high tribunal refused to review a decree of the Illinois Supreme court upholding Judge Comerford's election.

Glencoe Wants $25,000 Tract for Town Park

The village of Glencoe yesterday filed a petition in the Superior court for permission to institute condemnation proceedings to acquire property at the junction of Green Bay and Glencoe roads for a park. Village Attorney Frederick Dickinson estimated the price of the 40,000 foot tract at $25,000 and said $13,000 would be spent in improving the ground.

SUN-TAN fashion rules sports costumes in daring line and color. This four-piece costume of blouse, shorts, skirt and jacket is of fine silk jersey. Scarlet and white, or black and white. $55.

TUB FROCKS take the fashion of the mode and apply them to their informality. This frock is collarless with a scarf buttoned to its neckline. Silk in yellow, white, tan, green and blue. Sizes for misses and women. $17.50.

MISS' COATS strike a note that is new in the manipulation of fur. This coat of creole cloth is beautifully tailored with cape collar banded in scarf of fox. In both beige and black. $250.

A Summer Evening Frock in Lace For Women

This newest version of the frock of silk lace and tulle is misty in its effect. From the close bodice, the full skirt is uneven and falls in deep scallops. A cape scarf is worn low on the shoulders in delightful Empire neckline.

Ivory color net and lace—worn over flesh-color satin. Below, right. $175.

A Lovely Frock in Georgette and Lace

A misses' frock in Georgette has soft tiers and tucks without sacrifice of slender line. The lace yoke is flattering. In light blue, tan, black and navy blue. $65.

A Misses' Frock of Winsome Charm

Eggshell—the soft, creamy tone that is so luxurious in the folds of supple faille crepe—or blue or rose. There is length of line in this frock in the fullness of the uneven skirt. The basque bodice is mounted on a yoke of net and appliqued lace. Below at left. $85.

The Spring Coat Hints at Formality

A great deal of the importance of fur is the smart detail it portrays. A woman's coat in fine wool has double collar of rich Jap mink. Inset at the sides of the collar is shirred silk to give a foundation to its smart flare. In black. Sizes for women. $250.

MISS' ENSEMBLES give to tweed a special significance. Collar of flat caracul and silk blouse in the charcoal print of Rodier are further indications of its smartness. Tan and green. For misses. $200.

Representatives of Chicago

YOU SEE them everywhere—on Pullmans—in hotel lobbies and in the offices of business men in cities, towns and villages throughout the country.

They are the men who represent Chicago business—the men who are developing new outlets for Chicago-made goods—the men who are helping to build a greater city—representatives of Chicago.

And wherever they go, the representatives of Chicago find a powerful force working for their success—the force of national advertising—educating, creating confidence, establishing good will, directing the attention of a nation to products on which have been built the industrial and financial structure of Chicago.

Through Crowell Publications, Chicago advertisers are finding an efficient, economical means of promoting sales and profits.

They are reaching a "nation within a nation"—a magazine circulation of more than 7,500,000—greater than that of any other publishing house in the United States.

The people of Crowell Nation live in cities, in towns and on farms. And they are unusually responsive to advertising. For Crowell Publications deliberately inspire the desire for better things—the will to possess and enjoy—the determination to live more fully and more abundantly.

Crowell Nation now spends more than $69,000,000 a day in better living. And its yearly expenditures are steadily increasing—becoming a greater and greater power in the world of commerce—offering Chicago industries a market of vital importance in continued growth and development.

By well-directed sales efforts and with the help of national advertising in Crowell Publications, the industrial leaders of Chicago are bringing a nation's wealth to the building of the city—contributing to the prosperity of every man, woman and child in the community—making Chicago a better and more pleasant place to live.

THE MEDBURY
FORT MURDER
By GEORGE LIMNELLIUS

SYNOPSIS.

Medbury, of the Royal Army Medical corps has just been transferred from London to Fort Medbury, which is not far from London. He is about to leave his office to go to his wife and children on riding when Lieut. Lapeau is summoned to the major's office. The lieutenant is suffering from a mild nasal disorder and the major prescribes for him. After the young officer leaves Maj. Prece remembers that he has seen him before and recalls the occasion. The visit puts the major in a pensive mood. He recalls his first love affair with Prunella Lake, an actress on the London stage.

INSTALLMENT III.
A PARTING.

Prece remembered he had felt ridiculously embarrassed when he had been round to find Prunella's mother with the diffident manner of one accustomed to social situations regarding him from a pair of shrewd light eyes. He had wondered, vaguely, if she was going to ask him "his name."

"Honorable but remote," he thought, with nervous fidgety, would be the correct reply. Perhaps she would demand whether he was in a position to support a wife. He could think of no better answer than that he would not object to his wife supporting him. He knew very well that Prunella would never marry him, for he saw, with distressing clarity, that Prunella's heart would never leave her head.

His amazement as he listened to Prunella's mother he found that she was quietly and tactfully telling him what he already knew: that her daughter would not marry a poor man.

Mr. Lake in her quiet voice, still after forty-one years in a London drawing room, with traces of a Dorset burr—plunged into biographical details. Prunella, it appeared, had always been a good girl, but it became increasingly apparent as her mother's recital continued she had never captured her father's heart. Syd, Prunella's only brother and elder by two years, had been the little woman at last had broken off her monologue to ask anxiously: "Do you think I'm being unfair to my own daughter, Mr. Prece?"

Prece disclaimed the suggestion by a gesture which he felt lacked the assurance of complete conviction.

"They've been a good girl—none better. Never a moment's fuss or worry over her, and she on the stage and all, if you follow me, but—" Mrs. Lake glanced round and, picking up a Nottingham lace antimacassar from

"Prunella—his voice was stifled—"I simply can't leave you—like this." He sat at a plush armchair, made for the door. Speaking over her shoulder with the door held ajar, she had completed her sentence: "She's always said after herself, sir, don't forget that. She's No. 1 all the time. I liked her, you know. You're not the sort of silly young man, as she generally is, who you know. So you look out. She's a deep one, is Prunella—but—just after her." With a nod and a glint she had gone. Prece never remembered seeing her again. She was right, though. He had always known that Mr. Lake's confidence merely confirmed his own estimate of Prunella's mother. He knew it still; and yet he reflected grimly, he supposed he loved her—had loved her, certainly—still loved her? Perhaps. Astonishingly, he had been able to define the peculiar attraction Prunella cast over him. He saw her steadily, dispassionately, knew her to be none selfish; a real fighter of her own personality. With her he was completely at his ease. They fitted in together. They were made for each other, he told himself. He understood her and, comprehending all, loved her.

With a slightly ardent smile Maj. Prece sighed, abruptly flicked some ash off his tunic. His thoughts returned to that last evening with Prunella before he had called for West Africa. They had had a box at Covent Garden for the Russian ballet, whose exotic decor then was thrilling artistic vision for the first time. The speed, precision and incredible gusto of the dancing excited Prunella's profound respect. During the Don Quixote Prunella's thin body pressed towards his own as the tempo of music closed in a crescendo of pagan violence.

The last scene, Scherazade, with its mixture of oriental passion and its riot of color and haunting, insistent rhythms, seemed to have faded from the major's mind. Prunella's own abundant vitality. "Let's go home, Hugh," she whispered when he would have urged her to supper at the Savoy.

Passing in their swaying hansom through the dimly lit suburban streets, Prunella had hardly spoken, nor did she lift her head from his shoulder when they stopped at the little darkened house in the drab street where she lived. "We're here, darling," he whispered. She stirred softly in his arms, looking up her face, like a child, to be kissed.

Hugh had given the cabman a shaking tip for his tactfulness in not passing through the trap door in the roof of the hansom. Prunella had lit the inverted incandescent gas burner in an uninviting room. She had thrown off her cloak and was curled up on an uninviting sofa of furniture. The air in the room smelled stale and chilly.

"Give me a cigaret, Hugh," she had murmured. For a woman to smoke still, considered, in bourgeois circles, a little fast. Prunella had a natural taste for the aristocratic gesture.

Prece, throwing a cushion upon the floor, sat down, his head upon her shoulder. He felt a sudden wave of sick depression as he realized he would not see her again for over a year. He took her hand, pressing the soft palm against his mouth and nose in a vain attempt to fill his whole being with her presence, so that during his year of exile he would ever hold the faint presence of her body in his nostrils.

"Prunella—his voice was stifled—"I simply can't leave you—like this." "You mean—" she had exclaimed in a voice which had made him look at her, her face and neck had crimsoned—"you mean—" Hugh, mother's upstairs. Besides, I couldn't do that—over—even if I did."

For an amazed second Prece had stared into her eyes, then he laughed. "Wouldn't you—ever?"

Prunella's crimson tide had swept her neck and shoulders. "Hugh—I—perhaps, when you come back." He had made a curious little jump—a last leap of freedom, he had leaped. She had misunderstood him.

"Prunella to marry me," he murmured. It was then she had leaped. Prunella pressed the stub of her cigaret into an ash tray. There was a clink of finality in the gesture which had sent a chill of fear through her. And right, Ma Prece reflected, time is very young a year seems like a century. And right, Ma Prece reflected, time is very precious to the young. And right, Ma Prece reflected, time is very precious to the young. And right, Ma Prece reflected, time is very precious to the young.

Prunella knew it. With a rare instinct that they only knew it. Prunella knew it. With a rare instinct that they only knew it. Prunella knew it. With a rare instinct that they only knew it.

Prunella knew it. With a rare instinct that they only knew it. Prunella knew it. With a rare instinct that they only knew it. Prunella knew it. With a rare instinct that they only knew it.

Bishop Wade

Russia as Well.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
RIGA, Latvia, March 5.—Bishop Raymond Wade, who recently was appointed head of the Methodist church in northern Europe and Russia, preached four sermons in Riga at the closing of the semi-annual conference of the Latvian and Lithuanian churches.

After eight years as a pastor in Evanston in the Methodist church the bishop finds that northern Europe is a difficult diocese to manage, because of the numerous languages. From the German, Danish, Norwegian, Swedish, Finnish, Estonian, Lettish, Russian, and Lithuanian languages the bishop has selected Swedish as the first language to learn at the headquarters in Stockholm. While he only has been in Europe a few months he already can make himself understood in Swedish.

Carefully folded in the bishop's brief case is a six months old copy of the Paris edition of The Chicago Tribune, which he has used in all the countries of northern Europe to illustrate one of his sermons entitled "Interpreting Christ's Teaching: from Your Daily Newspaper." The bishop found that the Paris edition contained a definite moral value, and that each one could be used as the text for a sermon.

Bishop Wade has left for Reval and he will fly over the frozen Finnish gulf to Helsinki. The steamers connecting the two cities make the weekly trip in 10 hours with the aid of an icebreaker, but two planes make an average of five trips daily and cross the gulf in 40 minutes. The Helsinki-St. Petersburg airline is carrying more passengers daily than any other winter air service in Europe.

Calls Red Cross Rebuilder
of Self Respect by Relief

The rehabilitation of a family by building up its moral courage, pride, and social consciousness has replaced the old idea that charity is a matter of old clothes and food. That is the aim of the Red Cross in its civilian home service work, according to Lewis H. Kilpatrick of St. Louis, who yesterday addressed workers attending the midwest institute of the Red Cross.

Lloyd George Again Decides to Write His Memoirs

LONDON, March 5.—David Lloyd George has again decided to write his memoirs. It was stated here tonight that he plans to undertake the work immediately after the general election. At present he is engaged in collecting the material required. This is the second time Mr. Lloyd George has planned a book of recollections.

The Question.

Do you look for any radical changes during the Hoover administration?

The Answer.

William Sieben, 600 Crescent avenue, Park Ridge, Ill., mechanic.—Most people will be greatly disappointed if President Hoover's administration does not carry out many measures that are needed and would be appreciated. Among them is food relief. Fortunately, President Hoover is a competent man to carry out that work properly.

Miss Emma Sharpless, 5523 Kenmore avenue, dramatic artist.—I wouldn't expect to see any radical changes. A steady, genuine, businesslike administration is what we are justified in expecting from Hoover's past record, and his device more admired than any other I heard via radio.

Joseph C. Merck Jr., 185 North Western, Chicago.—I am hoping for some radical changes. We know that President Hoover is a little dry. I get that way myself occasionally. President Hoover is a first class constructive engineer from whom we may expect important improvements.

Miss Marie E. Ruth, 4317 North Keeler avenue, secretary.—President Hoover does not appear to be looking in initiative and aggression. We may expect some positive action on the Volstead law question. I always have considered the prohibition law a failure.

Walter Oelzefer, 807 McCormick boulevard, correspondent.—I believe Hoover will make an active, progressive President, perhaps taking no radical action, but noteworthy for foresight and sound judgment. President Hoover probably will begin by overhauling the government at Washington, and then proceed to help the country generally.

During the last six months Lake Michigan, which is abnormally high, has been releasing an enormous volume of water into Lake Michigan, according to Horace Ramey, sanitary district engineer.

"Lake Michigan," Mr. Ramey said, "is at present two feet higher than it was at the time the Supreme court ruled that the sanitary district could not divert its water for other than purposes of navigation. When the hearings before Special Master in Chancery Hughes began on March 25, to settle the question of the length of time to be granted the district in completing sewage treatment plants, the level of the lake will probably be even higher."

Poles from 17

Freedom FetePlan Exhibits for Home-

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

WARSAW, March 5.—Chicago's Polish citizens have contributed largely to the Polish national exposition which will open at Poznan May 15 to commemorate the 10th anniversary of Poland's freedom from the grip of Austria, Germany, and Russia.

Forty-five committees in 17 different countries are preparing exhibits relating to expatriate Polish groups. These exhibits will be shown in a special building to cost $45,000, and which is the gift of American Poles. The greater part of the money so subscribed came from Chicago. At the close of the exhibition the building will become a permanent museum for "Foreign Poland." The fair exhibits will furnish the nucleus for the museum collection.

Thirty thousand visitors are expected to come from America. The Chicago delegation will carry Chicago's invitation to Poland to participate in that city's 1938 exposition.

Among the buildings erected for the exposition is the Art palace, where the famous Matejko paintings, sculptures, decorative art and literary exhibits will be shown. Before this palace will be erected a monument to Polish aviators who lost their lives in the service of their country. The government buildings will be placed near the Art palace. In that building the different ministries will conduct exhibitions of their work.

Agriculture and live stock raising will play a prominent part at this exposition. A hall is being erected for 4,000 head of cattle that will be shown in an arena, around which will be a stadium seating 5,000. Industrial exhibits also will be on view. A large amusement park will be included in the exposition projects.

The exposition buildings are not to be temporary structures. The hotel built for visitors to the exposition will later be converted into a home for the students of Poznan university. The university will also take over the art and government buildings at the conclusion of the exposition.

Lake Michigan Still Rising
in Spite of the Canal

Despite the contention of neighboring states that the sanitary district's diversion from Lake Michigan is lowering the level of the lake, the monthly survey of the United States lake survey shows that the level for February of 1929 is 1.74 feet higher than that of February, 1923. The present level of the lake is 1.57 feet higher than the average February mark for the last ten years, the report sets forth.

During the last six months Lake Superior, which is abnormally high, has been releasing an enormous volume of water into Lake Michigan, according to Horace Ramey, sanitary district engineer.

"Lake Michigan," Mr. Ramey said, "is at present two feet higher than it was at the time the Supreme court ruled that the sanitary district could not divert its water for other than purposes of navigation. When the hearings before Special Master in Chancery Hughes began on March 25, to settle the question of the length of time to be granted the district in completing sewage treatment plants, the level of the lake will probably be even higher."

You Hear Block's
Sonata, and Then
You Form Opinion

BY EDWARD MOORE.

One of the interesting points about the joint recitals by Jacques Gordon, violinist, and Rudolph Reuter, pianist, is that they generally manage to introduce new music. Some of it is important, some is even likable. They gave another at Kimball hall last night, and the first number was a sonata for violin and piano by Ernest Bloch.

According to the program, it was played for the first time in Chicago, though it would not seem to be entirely new. At any rate, Paul Rosenfeld wrote an article about it some half dozen years ago, and I am indebted to him for the statement that it brings to mind not man but swarming and surging microscopic organisms, insupportable billions of bacteria. It is difficult to believe, but the rest of the article leads to the conclusion that he intended the sentence as words of praise.

The biological aspect of the piece did not occur to me while it was being played. In fact, it is hard to get any definite impressions at all from the first hearing of a work which on ordinary standards is just plain cockeyed. The chief memory is of a savage, driving energy that never ceases until the piece stops. Further acquaintance might bring affection in its train, but, too, it might not. Naturally it is polytonal throughout, the device more admired than any other by our best composers, but I, for one, find that I grow bored with polytonality as a credential of genius.

Mr. Gordon's solo group had other new music in it, a "Chant d'Esperance" by Gustave Samazeuilh and a Baroque by Gabriel Pierné, but his own "Serenade Burlesque" was a thing that had gone before, and by special request was repeated.

Mr. Reuter had nothing with the "first time" label appended, but there was quite a bit that could be called a new thing. Among these were "Il Ragazzo Verdi" by Castelnuovo-Tedesco, a Prelude by Osterstrom, and "Saudades das Selvas Brasileiras," by Villa-Lobos, the last a highly agreeable experience.

By special request of Miss Bertha Ott, who managed last night's concert, a piano recital for the mentally incompetent at the State hospital of Chicago next Saturday night. His appearance will be part of the therapeutic treatment prescribed by Dr. Alex S. Herzhfeld, state alienist, who is a firm believer in the effect of music on mentally disturbed patients. The program will be much more normal than last night's.

Definite Plan of War
Debt Is Expected Soon

PARIS, March 5.—(AP)—The experts in review of the Dawes plan for reparations payments are indicating to their friends that they hope to reach definite figures toward the end of this week and certainly by the beginning of next.

They desire to conclude the heavy work before Easter and to take an adjournment for a few days before returning to draw up the final texts of their recommendations. Their deliberations have reached the documentary stage.

Papers were in the course of preparation today and will be complete tomorrow which will set forth the provisional conclusions of the three sub-committees. They will, however, contain several blank spaces representing conversations upon which conclusions have not been arrived at.

This is especially noticeable in the case of questions dealing with the three classes of payments into which it now seems to be unanimously agreed the reparations will be divided. These classes are unconditional cash, conditional cash, and deliveries in kind.

County Relief Decrease Tells of ProsperityFamily Aid Given Drops
One-third.

A decrease of one-third in the number of families aided by the county public welfare bureau in the last three months as compared with a similar period a year ago was announced yesterday by Joseph L. Moss, director of the bureau. Industrial prosperity, which reduced unemployment, is responsible for the drop, Mr. Moss said.

The reduction results in a saving of $40,000 for the county. In the first three months of the fiscal year the department expended $170,000 in affording relief to needy families, as against $130,000 in 1928.

Comparative figures showing the number of families given relief in the three month period for the last three years follow:

	1927.	1928.	1929.
December.....	5,122	7,115	8,897
January.....	6,255	8,554	9,148
February.....	6,888	9,141	9,508
Totals.....	18,265	24,810	27,553

"The fading of poverty in the county is due to better industrial conditions," Director Moss said. "Much of the relief work done was made necessary by the severe winter. With the coming of spring and further stimulus of business I predict a minimum number of needy. We hope to set a new low figure for the department."

Director Moss explained that increased efficiency on the part of investigators has "weeded out" applicants flitting asking for relief. He added that retrenchment ordered by the county board in cutting the appropriation from $550,000 to $400,000 stimulated thorough investigation.

'Y. W. C. A. Around World'
Will Be Theme for Tonight

Representing their own countries, where the Chicago Y. W. C. A. supports secretaries, three girls from Turkey, China and Chile will be guests of honor tonight at the annual World Fellowship banquet in the new Harold Hammond McCormick memorial. Miss Helen Thoburn, international secretary of education, who has returned from six years in China, will speak on the Y. W. C. A. Around the World.

The Metropolitan council, of which Miss Jewel Butler is president, is responsible for raising $5,000 needed to support the work of the Y. W. C. A. in Constantinople, Shanghai and Santiago.

Mother of Baron Huenfeld
Thanks Mayor Thompson

Baroness von Huenfeld, mother of the late Baron von Huenfeld, one of the three Bremen firms who paid a visit to Chicago last summer, has sent a letter to Mayor Thompson in reply to his cablegram of condolence in which she said:

"Your words of warm sympathy on the occasion of the death of my dearly beloved son have afforded me unending satisfaction. It was with the greatest gratitude that he always spoke of the wonderful reception which the city of Chicago gave to him."

Salvation Army Appoints
Mapp as Chief of Staff

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
LONDON, March 5.—Commissioner Henry Mapp has been appointed chief of staff of the Salvation Army by Gen. Higgins. Mr. Mapp for several years has held the post of London international secretary for the army in the United States, Canada, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, and the West Indies. Formerly he commanded the Army in South America, then in Japan. He also has seen service in India and Russia.

Why Let Your Hands Feel Inferiority Complex, Girls?

"Her hands suffer none of the inferiority complex mine do," a friend commented, on a guest's departure. "They're not good looking hands, really, but how she uses them!"

An apt definition of a number of hands, isn't it? They suffer an inferiority complex. The symptoms are an exaggerated desire to hide away—under the table, up the sleeves, behind some du-dab hanging from the throat.

An inferiority complex first has to be recognized as such, whether of mind or hand. Then it has to be talked to in good old Dutch Uncle language. No mincing words. Then it has to be treated to doses of courage—courage to come out and speak more intelligently, act more intelligently.

A mental victim is told to ask what the other person has that he hasn't got. Has he so much more brains, so much more ability, or doesn't the difference lie in the cringing soul of the afflicted?

Now, perfect hands are rare possessions. Good hands are not so rare. The physically lovely hand is a gift. But the good hands may be cultivated, and are. After nail grooming and skin preserving effort there must be a recognized need for nice hand gestures. No rules may be laid down for hand gestures because they are, as should be, as individual as the woman herself. But there is one basic rule upon which all the business of accumulating hand charm rests. It is absolute release from the feeling of inferiority already described.

The first step in clearing it away is grooming, but you know all about how that's done. Then look around at other hands. Are they so much more shapely? Are they so much whiter? Are the knuckle joints any more smooth? Then why hide yours away? Bring them out. Let them lie gracefully in your lap if you don't want to talk with them. But talk with them a little, just to show you're not afraid to let them be seen. Even if they're not pretty at all, release their tension and let them out and play. It's the only way grace of gesture is accomplished.

Yale Man from Omaha Wins Double Superlative

New Haven, Conn., March 5.—(AP)—F. A. Nash of Omaha was voted the "most original" member of the Yale university senior class in the annual selections just announced. No detailed specifications were available on how Nash impressed his classmates, since votes for that and other niches of fame, such as best looking, most popular, and so forth, embody simply the listing of the candidate's name.

Bright Sayings
of the Children

One thirteen-year-old boy said to his mother: "The day that I was born, I was a little bit of a baby, but now I'm a little bit of a man."

Another boy said to his mother: "I don't want to be a doctor, because I don't want to be a doctor."

My small niece has a vivid imagination and always pretends that she wears a wristlet watch "just like miney's," she says.

The other day when they were out together, her mother asked her the time. She replied, "It is just tea time, but my watch has stopped."

"Why don't you wind it?" her mother asked.

"O, mummy, don't you see? I don't want to use up all the time at once."

Father being out of town on a business trip, mother was substituting for him by escorting 5-year-old Benny to a vaudeville. Benny eyed appreciatively the acrobats, the trained dogs, and the colored comedians. As a line of high stepping bawling beauties all out on the stage he attempted to whisper something into mother's ear.

"I can't hear you, dear. What is it?"

And then the little fellow piped up, smiling: "Gee, I guess dad's with be could 'a' come."

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.
In Need of Clothing.

"If we could get some clothing we would surely appreciate it, as no one has worked here since September. My husband has been ill and employment is so scarce we have been having a dreadful time trying to get along. I wear size 44, shoes 4 1/2 D. My husband's size is 43 or 44 and he wears size 7 1/2 or 8 in shoes."

—MRS. G. M. L.

Sickness and unemployment have joined forces in depleting the savings of this family, leaving them in dire need. If you will gather up the garments you have been planning to discard and send them, they will at least be comfortably clothed.

Stop
Head Colds

If your nostrils are clogged, act quickly! Dangerous germs may be multiplying in the mucous membranes. Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm at any drug store. Apply a little of this well-known, antiseptic cream into your nostrils and let it penetrate through every air passage of your head, soothing and healing the inflamed mucous membrane. Your nostrils are open, your head is clear, no more hawking, sneezing, blowing, no more leading a life of suffering for breath. Get Ely's Cream Balm today and be safe.

Mexican Government Announces Surrender of Orizaba and Its Garrison, and Rebels Tell of Capture of Monterey

MEXICAN CITY WHICH WAS SURRENDERED TO GOVERNMENT FORCES BY REBELS WHO HAD SEIZED IT. A statement issued at the national capital reported that the garrison of 500 at Orizaba had yielded to a federal force. (1) The cathedral. (2) Textile mill. (3) The bull ring. Orizaba is about 75 miles west of the seaport of Vera Cruz. (Story on page 1.)

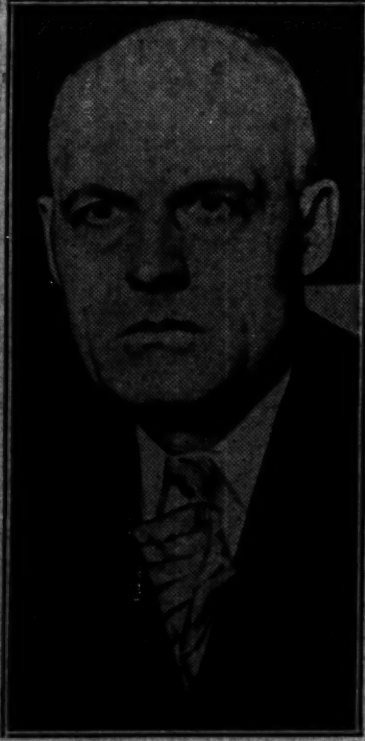

FOURTH LARGEST CITY IN MEXICO REPORTED SEIZED BY REVOLUTIONISTS. Monterrey, showing the cathedral and principal buildings with Saddle mountain in the background. The city was reported captured after ten hours' fighting. The government denies the report. (Story on page 1.)

REVOLUTIONARY FORCES GATHERING TO OPPOSE MEXICAN REGULAR ARMY. One of the irregular bands that make up part of the forces marching to join the leaders who have raised the standard of revolt in several of the states. (Story on page 1.)

RAINBOW DIVISION VETERAN GETS D. S. C. Medal. Gen. Paul B. Malone, commanding 6th corps area, decorating John C. Fischer, former private 166th infantry. (Story on page 12.)

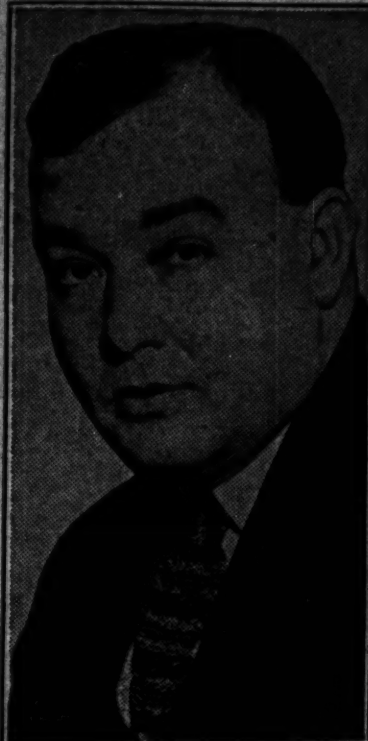

AWAITS COMMISSION. Charles E. Woodward confirmed by senate as United States district judge. (Story on page 12.)

WHERE BATTLE FOR CONTROL OF STANDARD OIL OF INDIANA WILL BE WAGED. Air view of Whiting, Ind. The arrow points to the administration building, where the stockholders will meet first, to adjourn to Whiting Community house, which is not shown in the picture. (Story on page 8.)

BACKED BY REBELS. Gilberto Valenzuela, former Mexican envoy to Great Britain, seeks presidency. (Story on page 1.)

FORMER PRESIDENT AND HIS WIFE GREETED BY NEIGHBORS AT OLD HOME. Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Coolidge on the porch of their home on Massasoit avenue in Northampton, Mass., at which they arrived early yesterday morning from Washington. (Story on page 6.)

NEW PRESIDENT DEVOTES PART OF DAY TO GREETING VISITORS. President Hoover meeting delegations and individuals on the steps of the executive mansion. He has announced that for the present he will devote two hours a day to callers. (Story on page 4.)

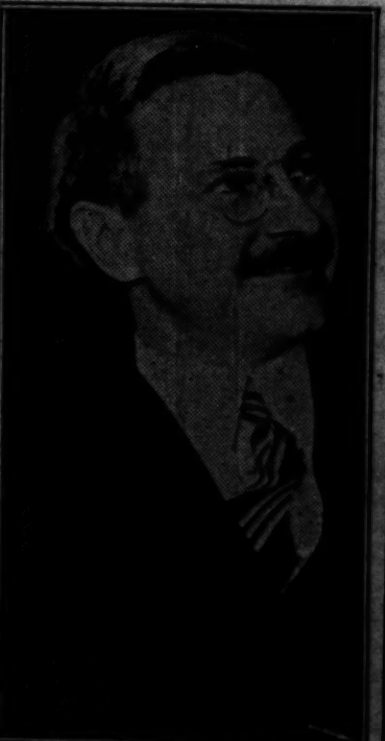

RAMS BUILDING. Mrs. Flora Torrey, arrested for driving while intoxicated when auto crashes. (Story on page 24.)

GIRL CHIEF OF BANDIT GANG GIVEN PRISON TERM. Jean LaMonte, former dancing instructor, who was sentenced to from 1 to 20 years in penitentiary by Judge McGoorty. (Story on page 6.)
